Accused New Paltz Ax Slayer Moved to Middletown State

HOWARD H. GRIMM

KINGSTON

Henry A. Baddoo, accused slayer of a retired New Paltz bank president, was transferred under heavy guard to Middletown Friday and committed to the State Hospital there for observation and treatment, according to officials from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

The New Paltz college student had earlier been arraigned on a charge of murder and committed to the Ulster County Jail without bail. He is charged with the ax slaying of Howard Grimm, 82, of New Paltz. The alleged incident occurred Thursday afternoon at Grimm's house.

"Baddoo was acting in such a manner that might have been injurious to himself and to other people," a Sheriff's Department spokesman told The Freeman. Earlier, State Police had indicated that Baddoo became unmanageable after he was committed to the jail.

Dr. Emaline Hayward, director of the Ulster County Mental Health Clinic, and Dr. Mark A. Vandenburgh, a Kingston psychiatrist, examined Baddoo at the county jail at the request of authorities. They recommended that he be transferred to the State Hospital in Middletown.

A Fatum's Ambulance vehicle was dispatched to the jail and then transported Baddoo to the Orange County facility, where he was admitted at 8:30 Friday night.

Baddoo had undergone psychiatric tests at Kingston Hospital immediately following his arrest Thursday afternoon. Officials noted that more tests will be conducted beginning Monday at Middletown.

The 24-year-old exchange student from Ghana is scheduled for a preliminary hearing Wednesday to answer charges of murder. Sheriff's Department officials said that it could not yet be determined whether Baddoo would be released from the State Hospital in time for the scheduled hearing.

Baddoo had earlier been arraigned on the murder charge before Town of Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall. Guarded by six armed troopers, a shoeless and handcuffed Baddoo had to be told by the judge and troopers several times to remain seated and pay attention to the proceedings. It was noted that the State University College at New Paltz senior spoke several times on a variety of subjects, none of them connected to the proceedings or the alleged crime. Once he was reported to have said, "My feet are prickly."

Baddoo was charged with murder and committed to the Ulster County Jail without bail pending the court appearance scheduled for Wednesday. An innocent plea to the charge was recorded by court officials.

Meanwhile, details regarding Baddoo's past remain cloudy. Authorities at the college have refused to make any statements about the youth or his background and one official, Sanders D. Terkill, resident advisor at Crispell Hall, where Baddoo lived for two years, said he received instruc-

West Coast Infernos, Thousands Flee Homes

GOV. REAGAN INSPECTS RANCH PROPERTY

RANCH SURROUNDED BY FIRE

HOSING DOWN A BURNING HOUSE
(UPI TELEPHOTOS)

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rampaging brush fires whipped by gale force winds shot across thousands of acres of parched Southern California today, turning scores of expensive homes into piles of smoldering rubble. Thousands were evacuated from their homes.

At least 100 homes in the $60,000 to $100,000 class were destroyed when giant flames from a 35,000-acre fire that started Friday afternoon ate their way into the Porter Ranch development in Chatsworth and spread in all directions.

In the coastal city of Malibu, at least 45 homes, some in the $125,000 range, were burned to the ground when a ring of fire shot down two canyons and surrounding hills. Officials estimated that it covered 25,000 acres.

The two blazes spread into each other, separated only by the Ventura Freeway, which was closed to traffic. Containment of the fires was not in sight, fire officials said early today.

At least 20 fire fighters were injured battling the blaze. Hundreds of others suffered smoke inhalation and eye irritations.

A third fire in Mint Canyon near Lancaster, 35 miles north of downtown Los Angeles, charred more than 12,000 acres but there were no reports of structural damage.

Another fire in Lopez Canyon in the foothills area around metropolitan Los Angeles destroyed two homes and severely damaged 12 mobile homes while charring 600 acres.

Two evacuation centers were set up by the Red Cross and sheriff's deputies estimated that at least 1,000 persons were housed in them for the night.

Gov. Ronald Reagan declared Los Angeles County a disaster area. He issued the proclamation from his ranch in the Malibu mountains which was threatened by flames. After the proclamation he stripped the ranch of its furnishings and left the area with hundreds of other residents.

Temperatures in the 90s and dry, gusty winds called "Santa Ana" winds from the desert provided tinder-box conditions for a fire and hampered hard-pressed firemen whose ranks were stretched thin by several other widely separated blazes.

Mark Jones, a UPI reporter who surveyed the fires from a police helicopter, described it as a "couldron of flames."

"It looked like 10,000 campfires. The hills were peppered with small blazes and showers of sparks would erupt as the wind shot through," he said.

The Chatsworth blaze, which started 30 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles, and the Malibu blaze, west of Los Angeles, linked together in several places. A county fire spokesman said the Malibu blaze had burned along the edges of an area called the "Cony" where many entertainment celebrities live. He said at least two homes valued at $125,000 had been destroyed and several others were damaged.

Roy Klein, who lives in a housing tract in Chatsworth, said, "I was gone 30 minutes to pick up my kids at school and when I returned my house was destroyed."

A condominium apartment house on a bluff overlooking the Pacific was surrounded at one point on three sides by the Malibu fire but was saved by water-drops from one of the four helicopters employed by the fire department. However, the powerful winds—up to 80 miles an hour—hampered the use of helicopters.

The Malibu blaze also destroyed the Catholic church's Sierra Retreat, a monastery, and severly damaged the Hughes Aircraft Co. research facility.

At Tecate near the U.S.-Mexico border, 172 persons were evacuated from a health spa and an orphanage when a 2,000-acre fire licked near.

The major blaze at Chatsworth gutted the Spahn Ranch, home of the followers of Charles Manson while he is on trial for the Sharon Tate killings.

The latest fires were the worst in Southern California since the fall of 1961 when a blaze in the Bel Air and Brentwood sections of Los Angeles damaged or destroyed 496 homes.

A New Government

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

King Hussein of Jordan formed a new government today to work for reconstruction of his strife ravaged country as Arab leaders accused him and his army of violating the new cease-fire.

Ahmed Toukan, a Palestinian who was chief of Hussein's royal court, was named prime minister. Toukan is a former deputy prime minister.

From Cairo, President Jaafar el Numairi of Sudan, who led an Arab peace mission to Amman and got the cease-fire Friday, accused Hussein of personal responsibility for the bloodshed.

Coming on the heels of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's harsh cable to Hussein early this morning, accusing him of trying to liquidate the Palestine guerrillas, Numairi's statement appeared to demand the king's scalp in the Arab world's bitter internecine struggle.

"We tried to implement the cease-fire," Numairi told a news conference, "but we failed because one of the parties violated the agreement." He left no doubt that in his view the violations came exclusively from the Jordanian side. Jordan said the violations were the work of die-hard Palestinian guerrillas.

Guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat flew to Cairo with Numairi Friday night to represent the Palestinian viewpoint at a continuing meeting of Arab leaders in the Egyptian capital.

Numairi said the Egyptian Embassy in Amman, which serves as headquarters for his delegation, was fiercely shelled by Jordanian artillery while the group sheltered there—despite a truce ordered by Arafat and Hussein.

"As we left for the airport to leave Amman our armored car was also shelled," Numairi said. "Hussein himself is personally responsible for all that has happened."

Numairi echoed Nasser's charge, declaring: "We are convinced there is a plot by the Jordanian authorities to liquidate the Palestine Liberation Organization." The organization heads the guerrilla movement.

Although Toukan, a civilian, heads the 13-man Cabinet, key defense, interior and information posts are held by military men.

Six military officers are held over in the new Cabinet from the military government of Prime Minister Mohammed Daoud, who resigned in mysterious circumstances in Cairo earlier this week and sought political asylum in Libya. Hussein accepted the resignation of Daoud's Cabinet Friday.

It appeared the new regime would not meet guerrilla demands that the military government be abolished. It was creation of a military regime that provoked the outbreak of the civil war last week.

Hussein declared his forces had observed the cease-fire "despite endless provocations" and urged the guerrillas "to slam the door shut forever on dissention and hostility."

The Jordanian army has been standing still around Ramtha and Irbid, 50 miles north of Amman, for the past three days, the king said. The situation in Amman was calm, he added, "except for scattered incidents where the armed forces were attacked."

He charged that a number of guerrilla groups were opposed to the cease-fire and were trying to sabotage it.

The charge that Jordan had broken the cease-fire agreement was made by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in a cable sent to Hussein and broadcast over Amman radio. It was sent in the names of nine Arab nations whose leaders have been holding an emergency summit in Cairo.

News reports from Jordan Friday night said the fighting had ended. The round-the-clock curfew which had been in effect in Amman for more than a week was lifted for five hours daily, Radio Amman said.

Nasser charged that "a horrible massacre" was going on in Jordan "in violation of all Arab and human values." The cable, drafted at a meeting attended by Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat, said Jordanian assurances that Hussein's commanders would observe the cease-fire were "completely broken and devoid of any real validity."

Stern Words for Russia On Naval Base in Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — By early and stern warning, the Nixon administration is trying to discourage Moscow from building a major Soviet naval base in Cuba.

The Pentagon disclosed evidence Friday of what it said appears to be a submarine support base under construction in the harbor at Cienfuegos, possibly for use by missile-firing Polaris-type subs now positioned in the Atlantic.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said, "while we have seen activity along this line as far as Cuba is concerned, it is a little early to determine the extent of Russian naval involvement there."

White House officials quickly responded by saying this country "would view the establishment of a strategic base in the Caribbean with utmost seriousness." However, no diplomatic representations have been made to Moscow.

Officials here immediately drew a parallel with the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, when President John F. Kennedy said peace in the Caribbean could be preserved if Soviet offensive weapons were removed from the area and kept out in the future.

This continues to be U.S. policy, said one White House official who declined to be quoted by name.

President Nixon's European tour has his security agents troubled. Story on page 3.

But it is obvious the magnitude of the new naval development in Cuba is not the same as eight years ago when Russia placed offensive missiles on the island 90 miles from the U.S. mainland.

At that time, the Soviets had no Polaris-type submarines, and the United States held a clear military balance.

Today, with 13 nuclear-powered submarines armed with 16 missiles each and 15 more under construction, the Soviets can strike deep inside the United States without the need for land-based missiles in Cuba.

A base in Cuba would enable the Soviets to keep more submarines on station for longer periods of time without the need for returning to home ports for servicing and resupply. U.S. Polaris subs use bases at Holy Loch, Scotland; Rota, Spain, and on the Pacific island of Guam for this purpose.

Information on the Russian activity at Cienfuegos came from American U2 reconnaisance planes, the same aircraft which furnished the first solid proof of Russian missiles in Cuba on Oct. 24, 1962.

Church Council Slates Events

KINGSTON — The Kingston Area Council of Churches in its first session of the fall scheduled a number of events.

The annual meeting of the council will be held at Old Dutch Church Nov. 22. The Rev. David Lull of the Port Ewen United Methodist Church, David Hoopes, associate minister at the host church, Donald Glass and Harold Van Allen are on the planning committee.

A joint choir is planned under the direction of Percy Gazlay, choir director at Fair Street Reformed Church. The first meeting will be held at the Fair Street church Nov. 1.

Clothing is being collected today at First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf Street and Tremper Avenue, in connection with the Church World Service drive. Lightweight clothing to be distributed in Southern Europe is being sought.

The meeting was held at the Presbyterian Church Thursday night with Earl Little, president, presiding.

Choir Workshop Set Oct. 9-10 at Catskill Church

CATSKILL — Directors of children's choirs and junior choirs in the Hudson Valley will have an opportunity to start the fall season with a workshop under the direction of Mrs. John S. C. Kemp, director of workshops and festivals for the Choristers Guild, Dallas, Tex.

The workshop will be held at the First Reformed Church of Catskill Friday, Oct. 9 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 10 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Advance registration is now underway. Further information and registration data may be obtained locally by contacting Miss Cindy Jones at Old Dutch Church or Miss Helen Van Ess, RD 3, Box 49, Catskill, general chairman.

Bible Study Director Is Weekend Speaker

WAWARSING — Guest speaker at the Wawarsing Gospel Church, Port Ben Road, this weekend is the Rev. Ernest R. Bradley, New England director of the Bible Study League of America Inc.

The first meeting was held last night with additional sessions planned tonight and Sunday 7:30 p.m.

The Bible Study program is designed for prisons, reformatories and health institutions. The Rev. Mr. Bradley works in conjunction with chaplains providing Bible Study programs for inmates who volunteer to attend organized classes. It is not restricted to penal and health institutions however and has been widely used in churches, civic and fraternal groups and by many high schools and colleges as "elective courses in history and literature." The latter application is made possible through the interdenominational and interfaith emphasis. The program is titled The English Bible, a valuable Contribution to History and Literature.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the local pastor, the Rev. Ed Howry or by writing to the Rev. Mr. Bradley at 20 Seventeenth Street, Lowell, Mass.

The weekend meetings are open to the public. The Rev. Mr. Bradley will detail the program and present a Bible message.

New Leader At Fair Street

Mrs. J. Foster Welwood, a member of Fair Street Reformed Church is the new superintendent of the church school, which started in full session last Sunday. Mrs. Welwood is currently the Director of National Department of Women's Work of the Reformed Church in America and Canada, and makes her home in Kingston, returning each week from her office in New York City.

Mrs. Welwood, has had considerable experience in the field of religious education, having served in two Syracuse Churches as Director of Religious Education.

Mrs. Welwood is planning workshops and training courses, to be of assistance to the staff of the church school.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our dad, John Perry, on his birthday, Sept. 26.

"Happy Birthday in Heaven, Dad."

Love,
SHARON and FRANCINE

Memoriam

In loving memory of Michael P. Santoroski, who passed away Sept. 26, 1967.

The world changes year to year,
And friends day to day.
But never will be one we loved
From memory pass away.

THE COSTELLOS

Memoriam

In loving memory of our uncle, John Perry, on his birthday, Sept. 26.

God knew that you were tired,
So He took you home to rest,
For in His home called Heaven,
He only takes the best.

GODCHILDREN,
Debby & Mary Beth.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our uncle, Anthony Fondino, who passed away two years ago, Sept. 27, 1968.

You're not forgotten, Uncle dear,
Nor ever shall you be.
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.

THE COSTELLOS

Memoriam

To our mother, wife and grandmother, Clara Hines, in memory of her birthday, Sunday, Sept. 27.

You were always there to understand,
When we needed someone to care.
You were always there to love us,
When things were hard to bear.

But God called you home because He knows best.

HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDSON

Memoriam

In loving memory of Anthony Fondino, who passed away two years ago, Sept. 27, 1968.

There is someone who misses you sadly
And finds the time long since you went
There is someone who thinks of you always
And tries to be brave and content
Gone is the face we loved so dear
Silent the voice we loved to hear
'Tis sad but true, we wonder why
The best are always the first to die

Gives Up Post As Librarian In Phoenicia

PHOENICIA

The board of trustees of the Phoenicia Library Association announced that Mrs. Arline Rubin has resigned her post as head librarian.

Mrs. Rubin and her husband, Martin Rubin, a local attorney who has resigned as a Trustee in order to devote more time to the Mid-Hudson Library, have been active in library work for the past 13 years in Phoenicia and the surrounding area.

Mr. and Mrs. Rubin were part of a group of people who formed the original Phoenicia Library Association. For a number of years the library was operated entirely by volunteers. As the library grew, and the duties of the librarian became greater, Mrs. Rubin took over the position of head librarian.

For many years Mr. and Mrs. Rubin have worked to raise funds for the library, to enlarge community support, and to constantly improve the standards of library service in the large geographical area served by the Phoenicia Library.

The library, meanwhile, is continuing its business as usual with the help of volunteers and Mrs. Leona Conklin, assistant librarian.

Man Injured In Accident, Cited by Police

BLOOMINGTON

An auto reportedly traveling at a high rate of speed on Main Street in the hamlet of Bloomington went out of control at about 6:15 Friday night, striking two trees and ejecting the driver, who was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of a fractured skull and multiple lacerations of the head and body, state police from the Lake Katrine barracks reported.

John Sagar, 26, of Bloomington was reported in satisfactory condition today by hospital authorities.

State Police reported that Sagar was operating his auto east on Main Street when he lost control of the auto. The car struck a tree, spun around on the shoulder of the road and then struck another tree. Sagar was then ejected from the auto.

The man, issued a summons by State Police for speed too fast for conditions, was taken to Kingston Hospita by Fatum's Ambulance.

Guilty Plea In City Court

KINGSTON

Richard Girard, 42, of Hunter Street, charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest entered a guilty plea in city court Friday on the first charge and was sentenced to 15 days in jail with a conditional discharge and $25 fine.

The conditional discharge is effective if there are no further incidents or arrests.

Girard was arrested at his home on Aug. 29 and charged with disorderly conduct. At that time he resisted arrest. In court Friday before Judge Hubert Richter he agreed to plead guilty on the disorderly conduct charge and the other charge was dismissed.

C-H Dividend

The Board of Directors of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, at its monthly meeting held at the South Road office, Poughkeepsie, Friday declared a dividend of 37 cents per share on its common stick, payable Nov. 2, 1970 to holders of record Oct.9.

Nixon's European Tour

Security Agents Are Troubled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's European tour that begins Sunday has his security agents troubled. Besides guarding against the usual hazards, they are expanding protection to prevent an aerial hijacking of the chief executive's plane.

As a direct result of airliner hijackings by Palestinian guerrillas, all persons and baggage making the Nixon flight will have to pass rather rigorous scrutiny.

Even newsmen, most of them on a first-name basis with Nixon's Secret Service bodyguard, can expect their hand baggage to be searched if they are chosen to fly aboard Air Force One as a pool member responsible for reporting to colleagues flying separately aboard two press-chartered commercial airliners.

Moreover, such is the concern that even those aboard press planes hired from Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines must, under most circumstances, have their baggage at the White House ready for inspection by early this evening.

Such precautions have been taken for perhaps a decade on a spot-check basis. This time, it would seem, the scrutiny will be more thorough.

Air Force One and the two chartered Boeing 707 press planes will be under armed guard whenever they are on the ground. It can be assumed that at least one man with a loaded weapon will be aboard all three as they move to Italy, Yugoslavia, Spain, Britain and Ireland.

What will prove most unusual to newsmen who have followed presidents for years will be the care taken to make certain that potentially lethal "foreign matter" is not placed in their suitcases in hotels where they will stay along the nine-day route.

The Secret Service is prepared, of course, for some hostile demonstrations, even riots, in such cities as Rome. That sort of thing happened both in Rome and Paris and, to a lesser extent, in London, during Nixon's 1969 European tour.

However, despite a mounting leftist campaign against the Nixon visit, the President's communications director, Herbert G. Klein, said in Rome Friday he expects no anti-American demonstrations.

Klein was sent to Rome to make advance arrangements for the visit.

Dr. Henry Kissinger, the President's aide for national security affairs, leaves for Paris today to confer with U.S. negotiators at the Vietnam peace talks. However, Nixon's schedule for the tour does not include a Paris stop.

Spiro Tells of His Campaign Mission

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says his campaign mission is to help elect men who will fight a national trend towards permissiveness and to mobilize a silent majority that has been "bulldozed" into thinking its values are out of style.

The vice president spelled out this double purpose Friday night in a speech to some 1,800 Republicans who paid $150 each — or $275 a couple — to attend a dinner in the Milwaukee area.

Afterwards, he flew back to Washington.

Agnew declared, "During the past generation, a philosophy of permissiveness has infiltrated American life." And he said it has been a tragic mistake even though "sociological soreheads hate to admit it."

Coming at the end of a week that saw Agnew campaigning in Tennessee and Indiana, two states which are prime Republican campaign targets in their drive to capture Senate control, Agnew's appearance here was a bit surprising since even Republicans concede privately that Democratic Sen. William Proxmire is running well ahead of his GOP opponent, John Erickson.

Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, the Republican gubernatorial candidate to succeed retiring Gov. Warren Knowles, is in a much closer race against Democrat Patrick Luckey, a former lieutenant governor.

Without mentioning his name, he said Proxmire, "despite his flamboyant press clippings about slashing national defense, is a certified big spender." Proxmire has been a prime opponent of such projects as the supersonic transport and the C5A super transport, while chairing a subcommittee that has focused on costly defense contract overruns.

In his attack on permissiveness, Agnew said, "A permissive parent sees his child come to the dinner table wearing dirty clothes, his hands unwashed and his hair unkempt" and then reads the book by Dr. Benjamin Spock, "our foremost authority on children," telling him to avoid "bossiness."

"Who do you suppose is to blame when, 10 years later, that child comes home from college and sits down at the table with dirty, bare feet and a disorderly faceful of hair?" the vice president asked.

END OF TRIP—Joel Fogel who left New York City Aug. 15 on a 1,500 mile kayak trip to Miami Beach on the intra coastal waterway arrives at his destination in a pouring rain but smiling nevertheless. The purpose of his trip was to film and study ecology, water conditions, land conservation and wildlife. The 25-year-old adventurer studied marine zoology for two years before switching his major to journalism. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Reds Lose Some Key Areas In Cambodia and Laos

SAIGON (AP) — Government troops in Cambodia and Laos have captured key areas of their countries from Communist-led forces with support from American warplanes, officers said today.

In Cambodia, a large force carrying out the first major government offensive of the Cambodian war seized the village of Taing Kauk, driving out an enemy force that had blocked its progress for two weeks.

In Laos, government forces seized a hill position called Xieng Dat overlooking the provincial capital of Attopeu. Attopeu is on the Bolovens plateau in southern Laos near the northern border of Cambodia.

Both battle sites are on North Vietnamese river and land infiltration corridors that have been under daily U.S. bombing attacks aimed at curbing the flow of enemy troops and war materials southward into Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Taing Kauk, along Route 6 between Phnom Penh and the provincial capital of Kompong Thom 80 miles to the north, was captured by the Cambodians Friday.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Phnom Penh that outnumbered North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops apparently had evacuated nearly all their troops and casualties from dug-in bunkers before the final assault on the village. The final drive came from the west after a North Vietnamese strongpoint in the town's high school was destroyed by air and artillery strikes.

The Cambodian troops who captured the village reported finding four enemy soldiers dead and a small quantity of arms and ammunition.

A spokesman for the Cambodian military command refused to disclose the government casualty figures in the battle but indicated they were light. Local commanders had reported Thursday that more than 200 Cambodian troops had been killed or seriously wounded in the two-week effort to take Taing Kauk. Enemy losses were not known.

The spokesman said the village was not heavily damaged. Villagers who returned after the fighting ended Friday said they were unable to say where the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong force had fled.

Negotiations Resume With Auto Workers

DETROIT (UPI)—Their last General Motor Corp. paychecks in hand, striking United Auto Workers prepared today for what a UAW negotiator called the "slow, tough, painful" job ahead.

Strike benefit checks of $30 to $40 a week start Tuesday for workers who have done their picket line and other duties since the strike began at Midnight, Sept. 14.

Negotiations resume today and were scheduled again Sunday, despite pessimistic report on any progress toward a new three-year contract covering GM plants in the U.S. and Canada.

Altogether, 349,910 UAW workers were on strike and 36,065 others have been laid off at unstruck GM plants producing parts for other automakers. Other layoffs were spreading.

Another 2,000 members of the International Union of Electrical Workers were laid off indefinitely Friday at the Delco Products Division plant at Rochester, N.Y. Uniroyal, Inc., announced Friday it will close tire plants at Los Angeles and Chicopee, Mass., for one week starting Monday. About 2,900 workers will be affected.

Uniroyal, which produces tires for GM cars, previously had laid off 2,350 workers at plants in Alabama, Louisiana and Detroit.

Friday's negotiating sessions were concerned mainly with non-economic issues. Earl Bramblett, chief GM negotiator, said the two sides have agreed on 18 per cent of the local plant issues and on 80 of 426 national differences, mostly noneconomic, or about 19 per cent.

Bramblett said "some issues were resolved today, but no major ones."

GM estimated losses during the 10 working days of the strike so far at $990 million in sales, $132 million in wages to striking workers, $100 million in wages to laid-off workers and $220 million in taxes. Supplier losses were estimated at $400 million.

The Freeman, however, learned that Baddoo was born in Ghana in August, 1945 and first came to this country in the summer of 1966. The following fall he entered Windsor Mount Prep School in Lenox, Mass. The headmaster of the school, Heinz Bondy, described Baddoo as "extremely quiet" and "well-behaved."

Baddoo entered the college at New Paltz in the fall of 1967 and played for one year on the freshman soccer team and half of another year on the varsity squad. He is believed to have been a political science major.

The only other link to Baddoo's past is a brother, Paul, who lives in New York City and who was in New Paltz Friday conferring with college authorities.

Mrs. Betty Spencer, coordinator of foreign student services at New Paltz, who reportedly knew Baddoo quite well, was under heavy sedation and was not available for comment.

Leads Reported In Kidnaping

RUTLAND, Vt. (UPI)—The police say they have "substantial leads" that 5-year-old Leah Sarachik, kidnaped from her New York City nome and missing since Sept. 10, may be in this area.

State Police Capt. Harold Dean said Friday that a storekeeper identified the child's governess, Anna Meier Frolich from photographs. Mrs. Frolich, 56, was found dead of an overdose of sleeping pills Tuesday in a Monkton, Vt., cornfield. Her body was found in the back seat of the Sarachiks' car, in which she and Leah were last seen.

A second report, Dean said, also placed the child in the Rutland area. He did not elaborate, however.

State Pathologist, Lawrence Harris, has placed the time of Mrs. Frolich's death at about Sept. 13, three days after she and the child vanished from the Manhattan apartment of Leah and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Sarachik.

He ruled the governess' death a suicide.

A massive ground and air search of the area was called off Thursday night by state police and FBI agents after they failed to pick up a sign of Leah, daughter of two college professors.

Police said the car had apparently been refueled within 75 miles of Monkton, and asked gas station operators, storekeepers and motel clerks to help them piece together the trip from New York to Monkton. It was this appeal that led to Friday's Rutland clues, which Dean said appeared to be "substantial leads."

For a while Thursday authorities concentrated the investigation in Pittsfield, Mass., after two ticket stubs from the Little Cinema movie theater there were found in the car. But the Sarachiks ended that lead when they disclosed the tickets were purchased by the family some time ago.

In New York Friday, Mrs. Frohlich's son was arrested on auto theft charges when he arrived at the Sarachiks' home with the announced intention of joining the search.

The police said he was Beat Meier, 24. The man allegedly was driving a car that belongs to Dr. Howard Ziegler of Houston, for whom Meier works. Mrs. Frohlich's son left Texas Monday after he heard of the kidnaping but before his mother's body was discovered, the police said.

Police Probing Incendiary Fire In City Church

Kingston city police are investigating a fire of incendiary origin that broke out in the basement of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, corner of Hone and Spring Streets, at about 5:45 Friday evening, according to Kingston Fire Department officials.

The 5:55 p.m. bell alarm, said officials, sent five pieces of apparatus to the scene. Upon arrival, fire fighters found that the slight blaze, which originated in a cardboard box containing several children's toys, had been extinguished by a custodian at the church with the aid of several buckets of water and a fire extinguisher.

Slight smoke damage was reported to two rooms in the basement of the church with additional smoke damage reported to several windows and screens. It was further noted that two basement windows were broken. The blaze ignited in the boiler room of the church, but only minor damage was reported.

Driver Injured In Tivoli Crash

TIVOLI

A 22-year-old Tivoli man sustained a fractured left leg when his car swerved out of control on Kerley Corners Road near this Dutchess County community and then severed two telephone poles before entering in a field on the opposite side of the road, reported deputies from the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department.

Charles Warren, 22, of Kerley Corners Road, was admitted to Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck.

Sheriff's deputies said that Warren was traveling west on the road when he lost control of the car after it went off the right side of the road. The car then struck two telephone poles, overturned and then crossed the road and came to a rest in an adjoining field.

The accident occurred at about 7:15 Friday night.

Drug Case Is Adjourned

KINGSTON

The case of James V. Todaro, 23, of RD 3, Box 322, Saugerties, held on two narcotics charges, was adjourned to Sept. 30 when his case reached the city court calendar Friday.

Todaro was arrested by city police Sept. 5 and charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs, fourth degree and loitering for the purpose of administering drugs, first degree.

Police reported that Todaro was accused of having in his possession 12 wax paper packages that allegedly contained heroin. The arrest was made at Academy Green in uptown Kingston.

Card of Thanks

I want to take this opportunity to thank the Benedictine Hospital staff, Drs. Clarken and Cook, Rev. Harold Johnson, Rev. Harry Christianna, Ladies Auxilary of Olive Fire Co., relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness to me during my brief stay at the hospital.

FREEMAN ADS BRING RESULTS

Bucs' Defensive Gems Kill Champs

Mets Miss Those Miracles

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writers

Miracles just don't happen every year.

The New York Mets sadly found that out Friday night.

The Mets, who stood the baseball world on its ear a year ago when they went on to become world champions, were practically eliminated from the National League's East Division race when they lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

The loss dropped the Mets 3 1-2 games behind the Pirates with only six games remaining and Pittsburgh's magic number for clinching the division title is only three.

The Pirates won the first game of the crucial three-game series because they played heads-up defensively and were able to cut down two Met baserunners in the final two innings to preserve their margin of victory.

The first defensive gem was turned in by leftfielder Willie Stargell, who is not known for his work in the field. After the Pirates had snapped a 2-2 tie on a run-scoring single by Matty Alou in the seventh inning, Stargell threw out the potential tying run at the plate in the eighth when he cut down Ken Boswell, who attempted to score on a single by Bud Harrelson.

"I had a good jump on the ball and it was hit hard," said Stargell. "They had to try for the run. I think if they had it to do again they'd do it again. I'd have to challenge it, too, especially with a runner as fast as Boswell, because I know the outfielder has to get in good position and has to make a good throw. If he slips a little or the throw is off a little he scores."

Another big play for the pirates came in the ninth. Stargell had given the Pirates a 4-2 lead with a run-scoring single in the eighth, but Tommie Agee doubled home Ron Swoboda to start the ninth and there were visions of another Met miracle rally in the making.

After Agee' double, Joe Gibbon replaced Ray Lamb on the mound for the Pirates and walked Joe Foy on four pitches. Cleon Jones then lined out to Roberto Clemente in right and Art Shamsky struck out. As Shamsky swung and missed at the third strike, Agee attempted to steal third but was cut down by catcher Manny Sanguillen for the final out of the game.

"He had no orders," Manager Gil Hodges said of Agee's decision to steal. "It was a gamble play."

The evening was not only a total loss for the Mets but also for the Chicago Cubs, who are tied with the Mets for second. The Cubs lost to the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3, and also seem now to have little chance of overhauling the Pirates.

In other NL action, Los Angeles whipped Cincinnati, 9-3; Montreal nipped St. Louis, 7-5; Houston beat Atlanta 7-4, in 12 innings and San Diego topped San Francisco 7-4.

Tim McCarver and Don Money led to Chicago's downfall with back-to-back home runs in the sixth inning and Rick Wise protected the margin with a five-hitter. Tommy Davis drove in all of Chicago's runs with a homer and a double.

Claude Osteen pitched a six-hitter for his 16th victory in the Dodgers' triumph. Willie Davis and Tom Haller led a 14-hit attack with three hits each.

Ron Fairly's three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning enabled the Expos to win their 70th game of the season. Last year in their initial campaign they won only 52.

Marty Martinez triggered a four-run 12th inning rally with a run-scoring single as the Astros beat the Braves for the third straight night. Doug Rader's two-run single and a run-scoring double by Norm Miller capped the rally.

Rookie Dave Robinson and Rafael Robles each drove in a pair of runs as the Padres dropped the Giants one game behind the Dodgers in their battle for second place in the West. Robinson hit his first major league homer and also singled home another run and Robles collected two singles. Willie McCovey had a pair of homers for the Giants.

OUT BY A MILE—Out at home by the proverbial country mile is Mets Ken Boswell as he tried to score from 2nd on a single by Bud Harrelson in the 8th inning against Pirates. Pirate outfielder Willie Stargell threw strike to Manny Sanguillen to cut down Boswell in one of the key plays of the game. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Luis Sets Mark at 2,219; Another '0' For Howard

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The long season is over for little Luis Aparicio, but big Frank Howard struggles on.

Aparicio, Chicago's 36-year-old bantam, set a major league record Friday night by playing his 2,219th game at shortstop as the White Sox trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 5-1 in the opener of a doubleheader.

Then, as the Brewers bounced back to take the nightcap 3-2, Aparicio prepared to depart for his native Venezuela—with the Sox' blessing, a career high batting average of .313 and a signed contract for the 1971 season.

Howard, Washington's massive slugger, took an 0-for-4 collar as the Senators bowed to Ray Culp and the Boston Red Sox 5-1. He has gone hitless in five games against Boston over the last seven days.

Senators' skipper Ted Williams said Howard, who leads the American League with 42 home runs, is so tired he barely can swing a bat, but will not leave the lineup while the homer race is undecided. Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew is just one behind.

Elsewhere, Baltimore topped Cleveland 9-7 on Terry Crowley's 13th inning homer; Minnesota nipped Kansas City 1-0 on Jim Perry's two-hitter; the New York Yankees won their doubleheader nightcap against Detroit 8-3 after bowing 3-1 in the opener and Oakland beat California 6-0.

Aparicio, winding up his 15th AL season, broke the all-time longevity mark for shortstops held by ex-White Sox star Luke Appling. Aparicio had signed his 1971 contract earlier Friday.

"I think I will be able to play at least two more full seasons, and maybe three, if my legs hold out," said Aparicio, who was given permission to leave the Sox and join his wife in Caracas next week for their 14th wedding anniversary. "Then, if I am fortunate, maybe I will be able to manage in the majors someday."

Tommy John scattered seven Milwaukee hits and catcher Ed Herrmann hit a three-run homer in Chicago's first-game victory. The Brewers built a 3-0 lead in the nightcap and held on behind Dick Ellsworth's solid relief pitching.

Culp held the Senators hitless until the seventh and finished with a four-hitter, while Rico Petrocelli and George Scott poked two-run singles in the sixth.

Crowley's two-run blast in the 13th lifted the Orioles past Cleveland after they squandered a 7-2 lead in the ninth. Dave McNally, trying for his 24th victory, left for a pinch-hitter in the top of the ninth and the Indians promptly raked relievers Eddie Watt and Tom Phoebus for five runs, with Ted Uhlaender's three-run pinch homer the big blow.

Perry limited the Royals to a pair of singles by Cookie Rojas, making rookie Steve Brye's run-scoring double in the fourth stand up for his 24th triumph. Baltimore's Mike Cuellar is the only other 24-game winner in the majors.

Mickey Lolich tamed the Yankees with a seven-hitter in the first game, but they erupted for five runs in the eighth to break open the nightcap.

The A's spanked the Angels behind the four-hit pitching of John "Blue Moon" Odom to move within one victory of nailing second place in the AL West.

Kingston Booters Zip Coleman, 3-0

KINGSTON Coleman High's soccer fledglings hosted cross-town rival, Kingston High, Friday, and thanks to some superb goal tending by Don Hastings managed to hold Coach John Hunter's squad to a 3-0 victory.

Hastings was bombarded by 40 shots-at-goal from the Maroon kickers and several of his saves bordered on the sensational.

The Kingston defense meanwhile, clicking beautifully to date, limited Coleman to eight shots, with goalie Tim Corsones credited with only six saves compared to 28 for Hastings.

Kingston struck early in the first period when Vic Nacklicky scored from close up after taking a pass from Pat Nugent.

Later in the period (14:50), Ted Spader boomed home a header over Hastings' outstretched arms into the corner of the net. The play started with a kick of about 45 yards by Ed Hopp, the left fullback.

Tom Barton scored the Maroon's third and final goal at 14:50 of the third period, unassisted from about 10 yards out.

Coach Hunter praised the Coleman performance, saying, "They gave us more trouble than we expected." The Maroon mentor said he was satisfied with the performance of his defense, but felt the offensive line wasn't performing as well as it could.

"The defense moved and kicked the ball well," he said, "but our defense just hasn't jelled and we still have the big ones coming up with Middletown."

Bears May Lose Sayers

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Bears might be without the great Gayle Sayers in their National Football League game Sunday. The Buffalo Bills hope to be without Paul McGuire.

Sayers could miss the Bears' home opener against Philadelphia because of a bruised knee bone suffered in pre-season play. The brilliant halfback did play in Chicago's 24-16 victory over the New York Giants last Saturday, gaining 43 yards on 18 carries.

If McGuire doesn't see action, it will mean the Bills' offense is moving against the powerful Los Angeles defense in their game at Buffalo. McGuire is a punter. And punting has been a chief weapon for the powerless Bills.

Los Angeles figures to have little trouble offensively against Buffalo, with Roman Gabriel leading the attack, while Buffalo's main offensive threat, O.J. Simpson could have his problems penetrating or getting around Los Angeles Front Four.

Other Sunday games include Cincinnati at Detroit, Cleveland at San Francisco, New Orleans at Minnesota, the New York Jets at Boston, Miami at Houston, Pittsburgh at Denver, New York Giants at Dallas, Washington at St. Louis, Atlanta at Green Bay and Oakland at San Diego.

On Monday night, Kansas City will be at Baltimore in a game to be nationally televised by ABC beginning at 9 p.m., EDT.

Another of the sport's most rugged defenses will be tested for the second time this season in the Cincinnati-Detroit game. Detroit's defenders, led by tackle Alex Karras and defensive back Lem Barney, passed their initial test with flying colors by limiting the Packers to 114 yards in 40-0 rout at Green Bay.

A victory for Cincinnati would be the second straight upset for the Bengals, who surprised Oakland 31-21 last Sunday.

The Kansas City-Baltimore game will bring together two of the great quarterbacks—Len Dawson of Kansas City and Johnny Unitas of Baltimore.

Dawson went all the way last Sunday in the Chiefs' 27-10 loss to the Minnesota Vikings' their Super Bowl victim, while Unitas missed only one offensive play as the Colts squeaked by San Diego 16-14.

Stanton, Toscano Share Green Island Golf Lead

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — "This course doesn't give up easily," said Pennsylvanian Harry Toscano after shooting an even par 70 Friday to share with Australian Bob Stanton the halfway lead at 136 in the $60,000 Green Island Open Golf Tournament.

Toscano and Stanton moved up from a tie for second after sizzling 66s in the opening round, but the short, 6,711-yard, par 35-35—70 Green Island Country Club course took its toll Friday.

At first glance, the course appears to be easy and some were predicting a winning score of up to 20 under par. But the small greens are treacherous.

"The only way you can score here is to get the ball close to hole," said Stanton. "There are no straight putts and you really have to judge your speeds because these are tricky greens."

Agee Was on His Own

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The New York Mets may have run themselves out of the pennant race Friday night.

The defending world champions were thoroughly dejected after two gambles with the potential tying run failed. Ken Boswell was thrown out at home plate in the eighth inning and Tommie Agee was thrown out at third in the ninth as the Mets lost to Pittsburgh, 4-3.

Manager Gil Hodges spoke slowly, softly and reflectively as he sipped a soft drink and said Agee, who was caught stealing for the final out of the game, had run on his own.

"He had no orders," Hodges said. "It was a gamble play."

Agee, who has stolen 30 bases, said it was the first time all year he had been thrown out trying to steal third.

"I thought I had a pretty good jump. I figured he was going to throw (Art) Shamsky a breaking ball and figured if he throws a fast ball he'll hit it," Agee said. "He threw him a fast ball and he missed it."

Shamsky struck out on the pitch and catcher Manny Sanguillen's throw to third easily nailed Agee to end the game.

In the eighth, Boswell was an easy out trying to score from second on Bud Harrelson's single, but both Boswell and leftfielder Willie Stargell, who made the throw, thought he did the right thing.

"With two outs I'm running as soon as he hits the ball and there's no doubt in my mind I'm going to try to score," Boswell said. "I didn't see the ball. I didn't see him hit it and I didn't see him field it, so I didn't know how close it would be. All I could do was run."

Stargell said he "wasn't surprised" that Boswell was such an easy out.

Maddox Is After Clay

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Mayor Sam Massell says he is "not interested" in joining Gov. Lester Maddox in efforts to block a scheduled Oct. 26 heavyweight fight in Atlanta between deposed champion Cassius Clay and Jerry Quarry.

Besides not being interested, said Massell Friday, he lacks the legal authority to halt a fight sanctioned by the city's athletic commission.

He commented briefly after Maddox, who earlier said he would not object to the fight, told newsmen that "we shouldn't let him (Clay) fight for money if he won't fight for his country." He said he will seek an opinion from the state attorney general on whether he can block the fight.

The fight would be Clay's first full-scale bout since he refused induction into the Army three years ago and was subsequently relieved of his title by boxing authorities. Many cities have refused a Clay fight because he was unable to secure a license.

SAUGERTIES

Game biologist Gary Will of Delmar reported on the current black bear survey in the Catskills at the September meeting of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County at the South Side Rod and Gun Club.

Will gave a demonstration on the use of foot snares in trapping the bears. After a bear is caught, he said, it is given a tranquilizer and then ear-tagged, weighed, checked for physical condition and has a tooth pulled that is used later to detrmine the age of the bear.

The Conservation Department hopes that by tagging the bears and by hunters returning the tags, that more will be learned about the bear habits in the Catskills. The lucky hunters taking a tagged bear will be given $25 for turning in the tags and information on the bear kill. The biologist noted that the trapping program is proceeding successfully in Ulster, Greene and Sullivan counties.

REGIONAL GAME Manager Fred Ford reported on the upcoming hunting season, outlining the opening dates and boundary lines for the different zones. He also said that the turkey population is constantly growing and he held forth the possibility that a wild turkey season could be held in 1972.

Fish Chairman Frank Kraus announced that 51,387 trout had been stocked in Ulster County streams so far this year. Of this total, approximately 30,000 were stocked in the Esopus watershed. Additional stocking is planned this fall.

Reporting on the early summer trout kill in the Ashokan Reservoir, Kraus said that a number of the dead fish were examined in the state laboratory at Rome, where it was found that a yeast bacteria was the probable cause of the fish kill.

Clubs were notified that Federation pheasants may be picked up Saturday, Oct. 10, at Curtis Pine's in Binnewater. Each club will be assessed $5 for the crates to hold their birds. The crates remain property of the purchase club. Approximately 1,600 pheasants will be received by the Federation this year from the Enabling Act Fund.

Art Sperl discussed firearm legislation and warned each member to stay alert and oppose any legislation that would curtail the use of firearms and ammunition.

THE FEDERATION granted the floor to two candidates for office. David Lenefsky, candidate for the State Senate, spoke on the access road to state land on Overlook Mountain in Woodstock being closed to the public by private landowners. He stressed the importance of the state regaining this access because of the many recreation activities derived from the state lands on the mountain.

The closing of the access road by a private hunting group—Be-No Lodge Inc. of Yonkers, caused considerable consternation in the Woodstock area when it was announced in September of 1969. The Yonkers group built two small lodges on the 300-acre preserve.

The feeling in the conservation and other circles is that the issue is far from dead and both the State Conservation Department and the Woodstock Town Board are being urged to take a more active role in restoring the access.

George Barthel, candidate for the State Assembly, spoke on the need for improved conservation practices in the county and called for more "practicing conservationists" to represent Ulster County in the state government.

OPENING DAY of the 1970 waterfowl season is drawing rapidly on us. For geese and brant, Oct. 5 marks the beginning of a straight season running through Dec. 13. For the remaining waterfowl it is a split season with the first part ending on Nov. 18 and resuming for a 15-day hunt Dec. 19 through Jan. 2.

Exceptions to this date are Long Island, with its more moderate and later migrations, where the season opens on Nov. 16, and on Lake Champlain where the season opens Oct. 10 to coincide with that of Vermont across the lake.

Two species of ducks—scaup and blue winged teal—are offered as bonus birds this season. For those who can identify waterfowl before they shoot, the possibility of some extra hunting after they get their daily limit of three ducks.

THE BLUE-WINGED teal is an early migrant and often moves south before the season gets well under way. Because of this, it has taken less than its share of hunting pressure and its members have increased. Experimental early seasons in the midwest were successful in harvesting more surplus teal, but also resulted in other protected ducks being killed by hunters who shot first and identified later, the Conservation Department reports.

During the first nine days of the season, Oct. 5-13, two blue-winged teal may be possessed, in addition to the regular possession limit during this same time.

THE OTHER BONUS bird is the scaup. The hunter may have a daily bonus limit of two scaup anytime during both sections of the split season and a total bonus limit of four scaup.

BAG LIMITS FOR other lesser waterfowl are higher: mergansers, 5 daily and 10 possession; eider and old-squaw, 7 daily, 14 possession; coots, 15 daily, 30 possession. There are, however, special limits for the hooded merganser which is an attractive and rare bird. Only one may be included in the daily merganser daily limit and only two may be included in the possession limit.

Of all the waterfowl, geese are doing best. The sensational flights of geese that pass up through Central and Western New York to thrill goosewatchers in early April, return in force in October. Daily limit is three geese and the possession limit is six. The brant, a bird primarily of the costal waters, has a daily and possession limit of six.

With the weather, however, the idea of duck hunting seems rather remote, doesn't it?

Coleman Even In X-Country

NEW PALTZ

Roosevelt High swept a triangular cross-country meet here Friday, defeating John Coleman High of Kingston, 26-29, and New Paltz High, 28-31.

Coleman salvaged an even split for the day by nipping New Paltz, 29-30, when Dave McCluskey, Pat Nee and Don Tegeler won the 8th, 9th and 10th spots.

Casey Kaelin of New Paltz led the field in a 13:02 clocking, finishing 10 seconds ahead of Steve Carson of Roosevelt. Charles Wellington of New Paltz placed third in 13:29.

Mike Droulette was the first runner across the line for Coach Ken Ward's Statesmen in 13 minutes, 54 seconds. Steve Peruso of Coleman was 12th.

Coleman, now 2-1 on the season, hosts St. Patrick's of Catskill in a dual meet Monday.

RONDOUT BABE RUTH LEAGUE ALL-STARS — Members of the Rondout Babe Ruth League All-Stars were honored at an award picnic at the Rondout Valley Little League Field in Rosendale. The boys were presented trophies and then joined with the tournament team to watch Buster Narum, former major league pitcher and star hurler for the Mid-Hudson Rookie League champions, the Kingston Braves, give a clinic on the finer points of pitching. Narum is in the second row, extreme right.

Narum Conducts Clinic For Rondout Babe Ruth

ROSENDALE

Members of the Rondout Valley Babe Ruth League All-Stars and 13-year-old tournament team were honored at a picnic staged at the Rondout Valley Little League Field in Rosendale.

Highlight of the day's activity, planned by league vice-president and picnic chairman, Bill Mayer, was an hour-long pitching demonstration and clinic by former major league hurler Buster Narum.

Narum, who pitched about five years with the Washington Senators, Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox, recently led the Kingston Braves of the Mid-Hudson Rookie League to the 1970 championship.

Trophies were presented to the all-stars by League President William Botsakos, and team managers Hyler Van Wagenen and Bernie Schaffer.

The 13-year-olds received their trophies from manager Karlton Bowers.

Members of the all-stars are: Brian Burr, Ernest Cessano, Bob Cooke, Jeff Decker, Greg Eckert, Don Ferrari, Bill Mayer, Jamie Roche, Sean Roche, Dan Shaver, Ralph Swenson, Jay Thorpe, Kevin VanWagenen, James Warnot and Billy Wilkins.

Silver King Is Downs Winner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Silver King came on strong in the stretch at Vernon Downs Friday night to win the $4,000 featured fourth race, a trot.

The winner was timed in 2:02 4-5 and paid a handsome $21.20 for the honor. Gunslinger was second and Nite Club finished third.

In other New York harness action, Gunner and Dotty Diller fought it out right down to the wire with the photo decision going to Gunner in the $5,500 featured eighth race at Batavia Downs.

The winner trotted the mile in 2:05 4-5 to return $3.60. Lynn Lee was the number three horse at the finish.

Joey's Byrd claimed his 5th victory in a row at Saratoga. The yearling colt led John S. Butler by one-half length at the line and Scrooge took the show spot. The race was a $2,000 pace, the fourth race on the card.

Joey's Byrd paid $2.80. He was timed in 2:03 3-5.

At Monticello Raceway, Nevele Slopoke shook off the name and beat the field to the wire in the $1,600 third race, a mile pace.

Nevele Slopoke did it the hard way, with a three horse photo climax. Timothy Knight and Murray Craze also figured in the payoff.

The time of the race was 2:05 4-5.

At Yonkers Raceway, the feature went to Keystone Aaron. The winner rode the rim all the way and still had enough to hold off a rush at the end.

The race was a $17,500 pace. The favorite was Tropic Song and he put the winner to the test in the stretch. The time for the mile was 2:00 3-5.

Public Affair was third. Keystone Aaron paid $7.80.

Pioneers Top KHS, 24-33

POUGHKEEPSIE

Kingston High School's cross-country greenies battled highly favored Poughkeepsie to the 12th place before yielding a 24-33 decision to the Pioneers in the dual meeting here Friday.

Kurt Dossin posted the best time of his career for the Pioneers to lead the field in 14 minutes, 14 seconds. Teammate Mark Hetorilla crossed the finish line 18 seconds later.

First man to cross the line for Coach Ron Gabriele's Maroons was their sensational sophomore, John Cabell, who was clocked in 14:35. Cabell, in his first try at competitive athletics, has been a standout in Kingston's two outings to date.

Kingston took six straight places from 6th through 11th but were unable to move Jason Cohen out of the 12th spot which accounted for the Pioneer victory.

Kingston opens its DUSO League season at Monticello Monday.

The results:

Poughkeepsie 24,	Kingston 33
1.	Kurt Dossin	P	14:14
2.	Mark Hetorilla	P	14:32
3.	John Cabell	K	14:35

10.	Tom La Barr	K	15:30
11.	Jim McElrath	K	15:44
12.	Jason Cohen	P	16:01
13.	Mark Anderson	K	16:22
14.	Don Kelly	K	16:28

White Owl Flips Hess

KINGSTON

The arena was hot and humid and the crowd was small for Friday night's wrestling exhibitions at the municipal auditorium.

Chief White Owl, the popular New Mexico Indian, rallied to score a two-fall victory over Kurt Von Hess, the German badman, in the feature contest.

Hess, brother of the famed Karl Von Hess, won the first fall in 11 minutes, with the Chief gaining the equalizer in six minutes. Two minutes after the bout resumed, White Owl was awarded the bout when Hess was disqualified for rough tactics.

Cowboy Bradley and Roger Littlebock, the world midget wrestling champions, successfully defended their titles by winning two out of three falls from the team of Cowboy Lang and the Mighty Atom in a tag team event.

Mighty Atom, the world solo kingpin, and Littlebock captured the first fall in 17 minutes of the exciting bout. Bradley and Lang then dominated the match the rest of the way, to gain pins at 9 minutes and the clincher at 6 minutes.

Lil Abner, the southern hillbilly and Frank Diamond went 25 minutes in the opening contest with Lil Abner getting the pin with a body slam.

Promoter Ted Bayly of Troy, who has promoted a series of Friday night shows here, said he would decide later about any future shows.

U.S. Widens Its Eisenhower Lead

MADRID (AP) — With only one round to go, the United States seemed assured today of its fourth World Amature Golf Championship in the seven times the Eisenhower Cup tournament has been played.

With a solid nine-stroke lead, which has lengthened each day during the first three rounds, the Americans needed only to avoid total collapse by at least two players. So far they have been the steadiest crew on the course and even their competitions have practically conceded the U.S. victory.

Dale Hayes of South Africa, 18, a professional's son, was the individual leader with three sub-par rounds for a 209 total, but Lanny Wadkins of Richmond, Va., and Allan Miller of Pensacola, Fla., were tied for third place at 214. Tom Kite of Austin, Tex., was fifth at 215. Marvin Giles, also of Richmond, was tied for eighth with 217.

U.S. Education Budget

For the first time, the United States will spend more for education this year than on national defense. The expenditure for education, private and public, totals $73.6 billion. The defense budget is expected to drop to $72 billion. Most of the educational spending is state and local, but federal spending is rising, too. It is now $9.6 billion.

The human participation in education is even more impressive. More than 62 million Americans, 30 per cent of the population, are involved in education—as students, teachers and administrators. Students number 59-2 million. They include 7,377,000 attending higher education institutions. Teachers number 3,078,100.

These statistics show how education has become by far our largest public business. They prove that those who charge that the schools are being short-changed while we spend more for military purposes are talking without knowledge of the facts.

Expanding educational opportunities have brought their ills as well as their good. Students not interested in education but in violence and disruption personify its ills. The very many more who have been enabled to get a college education are the good. They are not that well-defined, but the lines between them are getting clearer. We believe the time is not too far away when the campus will be free of disturbances and the student body will be made up of students, not agitators. That will justify the billions being spent on education.

World Pollution Lag

Late as the United States has been in recognizing and moving against pollution, few developed countries are doing much better. Of 21 recently surveyed, nine have done little or nothing, seven have plans to do something and only five have average or better programs under way.

Sweden, which has had laws against pollution since 1956, has had legislation governing pollution of air and water and noise disturbances. It considers itself relatively pollution free.

London's traditional pea soup and serious smog are no longer a problem. Laws of 1956 and 1969 empower local authorities to declare whole or part of their districts smoke control areas within which emissions of any smoke from chimneys of all buildings is prohibited. However, there is not specific legislation controlling water pollution.

In the Soviet Union, the pollution problem is considered serious. It is less critical than in most industrial communities of the West, for one reason because industrialization is fairly recent. To improve the quality of air in Moscow, 20 million trees were planted.

If Americans are looking for ideas in their anti-pollution war, they will not find many abroad. They have been alerted almost as soon as any other people, and are perhaps more agitated about it than most. That should bring effective action.

Curtailed Junk Mail

Third class, or junk mail as it is known—circulars, handbills and soap coupons—will be withheld from distribution on Saturdays in 23 major cities under a plan just announced by the Post Office Department. Mailmen will not process or deliver anything on Saturdays but first class mail, airmail, special delivery and daily newspapers.

Junk mail will not be withheld completely, but delayed in delivery. Workers would process it on their spare time Sundays for delivery on following Mondays. Elimination of third class mail from Saturday delivery is designed to give the postal workers more time to handle preferential mail and would require fewer letter carriers to work Saturdays.

As might be expected, the Letter Carriers AFL-CIO union is up in arms over the change, because they were not consulted before the plan was approved. The union is afraid that less junk mail may mean fewer jobs. Its members make up 90 per cent of the 201,000-man letter carrier force. If this is one way of speeding preferential mail and giving letter carries some time off, we're all for the department.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California has signed a bill to prohibit the busing of school children without the consent of the parents. He fears busing will jeopardize educational quality by diverting funds. Many white and black parents agree that busing is an imposition on a child taken miles away from home every day when there is a school in his neighborhood. Courts and legislators are coming to the same idea.

The Swedish Social Democrats lost their majority in the Parliamentary election. They got 166 seats, three non-socialist parties won 167 and the Communists 17. Prime Minister Olof Palme, who has played footsie with the Communists, is willing to go the last step and form a coalition government with them. That is how Communists get a foot in the door of power.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Soviet Naval Expansion

ATHENS—While rumors swept the Middle East that the U.S. 6th Fleet would intervene against the Palestine commando skyjackers, our force is tied up tighter than a drum in the eastern Mediterranean.

In fact, this country—Greece—is the only country in the entire eastern Mediterranean where the U.S. 6th Fleet can congenially call.

It cannot go to neighboring Turkey, long a solid anchor of NATO in the eastern Mediterranean, without provoking street riots, protest-bombings and crippling internal strikes. That represents a complete reversal in our defense capability in this explosive part of the world. And in the light of the fiery Israel-Arab situation it is the main immediate problem of U.S. Vice-Admiral Isaac C. Kidd Jr., now newly commanding the 6th Fleet.

Moreover, west of Turkey and except for Israel, Tunisia and Morocco, the entire southern rim of the Mediterranean is hostile to us. Syrian Egyptian and Algerian harbors are available to the expanding Soviet Mediterranean fleet. And even on the Iberian peninsula at the Atlantic gate to the Mediterranean, opinion is incensed over what millions of Spaniards and Portugese call our double-standard—one for colonial powers, another for the Afro-Asians.

Meanwhile, Admiral Kidd, aboard his flagship, the U.S.S. Springfield, a light guided-missile cruiser, has taken over a profoundly worried fleet now alerted for immediate call in a nearly impossible situation.

Behind the scenes, and at this moment, Admiral Kidd's command consists of about 50 vessels, including two aircraft carriers and 200 aircraft. The personnel numbers 25,000. Even with the additional Marines arriving aboard the helicopter carrier Guam, his force has only a combat-ready battalion landing team of a scant 3,000 Marines.

His ships are also aging ships which show an encroaching obsolescence. Admiral Kidd does not see how he can compensate for time's natural wastage. An alarming proportion of his fleet was built during the 1939-45 war period and is 25 years old.

Its support by the once all-powerful British navy is all but negligible. In fact, Admiral Kidd finds that the entire worldwide British navy has now been reduced to three aircraft carriers, two commando ships, eight nuclear-powered submarines, 33 conventional submarines, three cruisers, and 87 large and small destroyers and frigates. British naval strength in the Mediterranean is merely the converted carrier Albion at Cyprus, the guided-missile destroyer Fife at Malta, and the frigate Euryalus at Gibraltar.

Moreover, Admiral Kidd is constantly harassed today by the Soviet probings in these waters. For example, the Soviet "tanker" Kustanaia suddenly arrived on the flank of his flagship Springfield in the crisis over the planes and passengers skyjacked to the Jordanian desert. A Soviet helicopter hovered nearby. Both were loaded with electronic gear to intercept messages between Admiral Kidd's Springfield and 6th Fleet units cruising off Lebanon's coast regarding our possible intervention.

Although the Soviet has no aircraft carriers (anywhere) its Mediterranean fleet's ships now outnumber Admiral Kidd's command. Then, looking further, he sees the Soviet naval expansion not only in the Mediterranean but to all the seven seas.

Admiral Kidd estimates that the Soviet fleet now consists of 75 nuclear-powered and 320 diesel-powered submarines, 25 cruisers, 100 destroyers, another 100 destroyer escorts, 275 patrol vessels, 300 mine sweepers, 300 torpedo boats, 125 missile boats, two helicopter carrier vessels, 130 amphibious craft and literally thousands of support, auxiliary and service craft.

Of nearly equal importance, the Reds have in these waters and worldwide a nearly-new fleet. Only 1 per cent of the entire Soviet fleet is 20 years old. NATO Supreme Commander Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster told me. That the Soviet is driving all out to seize supreme seapower from our country seems obvious to Admiral Kidd—while the United States Navy is admittedly inadequate to meet our worldwide national and international commitments.

The quiet, oh, so quiet expansion of Soviet maritime power was the military phenomenon of the 1960s. At close hand this looks like a relentlessly rising flood tide in the 1970s.

Admiral Kidd has his work cut out for him around here, as the Mideast continues to boil, the skyjackers add to that explosive turmoil, and the Kremlin makes its bid to achieve the balance factor in global power. After a visit to our NATO naval headquarters near Naples, to the Greek Island of Corfu where elements of our 6th Fleet are visiting, and then here at our eastern Mediterranean command's control center, the grim question arises: Who is policing the peace of the world now?

Jack Anderson Says

Candidate Sanchez Boldly Asks Lobbyists for Money

WASHINGTON — Phil Sanchez, a California Republican seeking to unseat the veteran Democrat Rep. B. F. Fisk, has made a brazen pitch to 400 lobbyists for money to buy TV spots, newspaper ads and $100 billboards.

The handsome Sanchez, now Fresno County executive officer, has also implored the Washington lobbying corps for help with his typing, pamphlet distribution and phone calling. The lobbyists, suggests Sanchez, may even want to attach bumper stickers for him, put up signs and loan him their lawns for billboards.

This astounding appeal to the special interests is contained on an enclosure that accompanies a personal letter to the lobbyists from Sanchez's campaign manager, William Moffatt.

"As a Legislative advocate," Moffatt wrote the lobbyists, "I am sure that you have developed considerable expertise in your area of interest." Moffatt asked each lobbyist to explain his special "legislative viewpoints" for Sanchez's enlightenment.

"I am sure Mr. Sanchez would be most grateful to have every kind of input and aid from your friends and associates, as well as from yourself," worte Moffatt on behalf of Sanchez. Moffatt got the lobbyists' names from a list published in the Congressional Quarterly.

Washington lobbyists were dumstruck by Sanchez's direct approach. They are experts in passing out bundles of $100 bills in dark places, providing unlisted stock options, promising new plants in Congressmen's districts and buying to $100 testimonials. But like medieval poisoners, Washington lobbyists take pride in the subtlety of their craft. They simply do not let Congressmen use their front lawns for campaign signs.

Moffatt followed up his first mailing with another solicitation for a $100 donation as part of a "Fiesta con Phil Sanchez" at a Fresno ballroom. The real door price, however, was only a modest $7.50.

One astonished lobbyist said it was bad enough to be approached so blatantly for funds, particularly by a man not even in Congress, but "he didn't even offer the ticket to the fiesta until the day after it was over."

Moffatt told this column woefully that the entire solicitation was a flop. Only three lobbyists even replied with their "legislative viewpoints." None made contributions, bought tickets or offered to attach bumper stickers.

Death of a Shrine

The view of America from the top of Pike's Peak, it is said, inspired Katherine Lee Bates to write "America the Beautiful."

It was published as a poem in 1895 and put to music in 1913. By 1920, it had become so beloved that a campaign was started to substitute "America the Beautiful" for the "Star Spangled Banner" as our national anthem.

But today the poetess, if not her stirring words, has been forgotten. For a year, the Falmouth-Cape Cod Heritage Trust has been trying to raise $48,000 to preserve her birthplace as a historic shrine, museum and conservation center.

For all their pains, the Trust has collected only $3,000. The final papers are being drawn up, therefore, to sell the landmark to a private owner on October 1.

Miss Bates was born in a dignified old federalist home in Falmouth, Mass., near the waters of Cape Cod. These waters, shimmering in the summer sun, gave her the famous line, "From sea to shining sea."

The old 1810 house is owned by Chandler Jones who has tried to preserve it as a landmark. But he is now forced to place it on the market.

"I'd hoped all along the trust could buy it," he told this column. But the October 1 deadline is now only a few days away. Still, he added hopefully: "If something comes up in the next week, maybe we can still work it out."

Footnote: Miss Bates was born in the house in 1859, became a celebrated professor of English at Wellesley College and died in 1929. She is buried in Falmouth not far from the village green where the house stands.

Illegal Appeal

Although tax-deductible groups are barred by federal law from partisan politics, the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation has quietly solicited $500 contributions to fight the political activities of organized labor.

The Foundation's National Advisory Council of Business Leaders, made up of such ultra conservatives as Walter Knott of Knott's Berry Farm in California, have issued the fund appeal to a limited list.

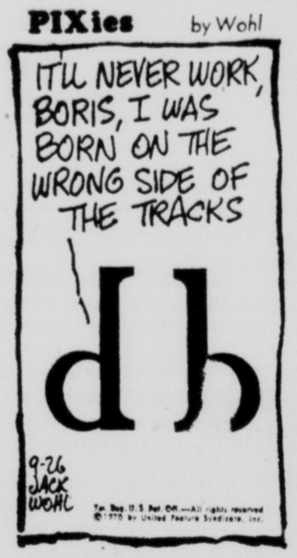

But some letters went by mistake to labor supporters who turned them over to this column. The appeal cites the 1968 Humphrey campaign which got financial backing from labor and says labor will spend "even more . . . on the Presidential campaign in 1972."

The letters seek $34,000 for a court fight "to ban the use of compulsory union dues for political activities." There is a clear political note in the letter's reference to "candidates and officeholders" who are under "the power of union officials."

Headlines and Footnotes

President Nixon has quietly been grooming Gen. Frederick Weyand to succeed Gen. Greighton Abrams as U.S. commander in Vietnam. The President assigned Gen. Weyand to spend a year at the Paris truce talks, to round out his experience before being shipped to Vietnam The United States has failed in a secret effort to persuade Thailand and Indonesia to send troops to Cambodia to help prevent a communist takeover. The Lon Nol government begged for several divisions, which the U.S. tried to raise from Thailand and Indonesia. But both countries finally decided to keep their troops at home . . . President Nixon will report to the nation in mid-October on all the legislation Congress failed to pass and will take the occasion to announce another troop withdrawal from Vietnam.

America Today-Tomorrow

Can We 'Dream', but Grow Up?

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Make no mistake, this country is at a very critical turn in its history. Its hallmarks are great freedom and wide affluence, but it has really not learned how to use either one.

The world found much to admire in the forms which we, as a budding nation, gave our liberties. It is still copying the technologies we developed to convert our riches to human use. Yet today the grand American model sways dangerously on its loosened foundations.

Sane, clear-sighted, eloquent men like John Gardner fervently declare the hope is still high. We have all got to believe that he is right, that America will endure as a land of immense promise. Before we can strengthen the weakend foundations, however, we have to face ourselves as we are.

For one thing, we are—with some fortunate exceptions—a highly immature people. We have reached out for the "American dream" with the grasping impatience of children. From our beginnings, we have always been hosts to the "now" generation, which first turned west and then to the cities for the quick leap past the barriers to fulfillment.

It was part of our immaturity that, in our consuming desire not to be thwarted in the push upward, we hardly noticed or seemed to care how many Americans—white and black—were not making the same swift transit to the full enjoyments of freedom and affluence.

Our huge, unfenced land—laden with natural wealth—helped to conceal this colossal oversight until the concentration of numbers in the cities brought it sharply in focus.

When belatedly we began in the 1930s to attend to this oversight, which had left gross poverty, insecurity and discrimination in its wake, typically we attacked the problems with the child's belief in quick result. Sweeping programs fueled by vast sums were to cure all and let us go about our business. Even intellectuals whose late 19th-century forerunners had opted out of the action were caught up in the magic-wand fantasies of an immature people.

We were the same in our approaches to foreign involvement. Safe for so long behind the oceans, we tried only to "do our own thing" free of sordid European and Asian quarrels.

When we did plunge into two world wars because, at last, we too, seemed threatended, our fundamental juvenility triumphed again. We had but one basic thought: Get it over with and get back to the ball game.

The world power thrust upon us after World War II was not to our liking. To the extent that its use was inescapable, to the extent that it led us, wisely or unwisely, into two limited wars, we did what might have been anticipated: We established ourselves abroad in mental and-or physical enclaves whose prime mark was youthful, self-centered domination of the enterprises we undertook.

We chafed under the yoke of foreign arrangements even as we dominated them, sold foreign aid to our people as a kind of "self-help," scorned stalemates as obvious offenses against our overblown pride.

The late Gen. George C. Marshall once said to Congress:

"The American people regard as a stalemate any problem arising in the morning which is not settled by afternoon."

None of this means, of course that there are no mature Americans or that there is no hope of our growing up. But we have been two centuries in a dreamy adolescence whose contagion has spared few and certainly has caught many intellectuals who thought they were free of it.

It is one of America's crucial dilemmas today that our tenacious immaturity is exhibiting itself at high pitch at a time when its crippling grasp can be most damagng to the nation's future.

For stalemates and intricate, untidy entaglements lie all about us abroad. And at home we know that wide, thick plasterings of money do not cure or even hide social problems whose magnitude and complexity have reached menacing proportions.

Our great need is for growing up. We no longer have the space, the riches or the safety to play children's games.

Professor Says Elderly Should Lose Right to Vote

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Marya Mannes' novel and TV play "They," depicts a time in history when man finally and brutally comes to grips with the question of old age. Laws are passed which romove all people 65 and over from regular society—they are banished from the rights and privileges of civilization.

Unthinkable?

Not entirely, according to Professor Douglas P. Stewart, an instructor of classics at Brandeis University. He doesn't advocate the complete cutoff of elderly people—but he does feel they should at least lose the right to vote.

His thesis is this:

"The old, having no future, are dangerously free from the consequences of their own political acts, and it makes no sense to allow the vote to someone who is actuarially unlikely to survive and pay the bills for (what) he may help elect."

In other words, Stewart thinks old people vote with an attitude of "graud je Serais mort, je me ficherais de tou—(when I'm dead, it (society) can go to hell)."

Therefore, in a recent national magazine and more immediately in a private interview, he calls for national laws which would disenfranchise all people at retirement or age 70, which ever comes first. More bluntly—that the old never again be allowed to cast ballots in any city, state or national election.

Such an opinion is not likely to win the 37-year-old professor any friends in the senior citizen settlements. But for now Stewart is firm.

First off, he says, remember that "I'm not against old people. One retired gentleman has written me a letter, shaming me and asking whether I ever had a father or mother. Well yes, I have a father and mother—but I also have children—which is much more relevant to what I'm saying about old people voting."

Stewart believes, as do many social students, that there is a dangerous "ageism" brewing in the land. Age-ism being like racism, but affecting young and old, rather than black and white. The professor thinks old people are jealous of the fact that the young have a future and he thinks the old are bothered by the fact that the ung do things differently. So he believes the elderly practice "age-ism" discrimination in their voting habits.

He uses California as one example.

"There was a time when old people in California—and there are a lot of them there—didn't engage in politics much. To them, politics meant voting for increased pensions, nothing more. But now, with the hippies and the social changes and the 'pinko professors' in the universities, the old folks have been herded together (by Gov. Ronald Reagan) to vote against progress."

Stewart says this old herd is not wise and tolerant, but rather cowardly, greedy and burning to punish somebody (youth?) for their own lifetime failures.

"They do not cast ballots intelligently, but rather revengefully. And really, I don't even know if they are mentally capable of doing even that. People are living longer these days and I believe their thought process is impaired because of it. I'm not saying they're insane. But many are senile. And in California, as elsewhere, I just don't think we can afford senile voters."

His opinion, at best, is hard. But lest anyone think Prof. Stewart is adding another sacrifice to the American altar of youth, he insists he is not.

Actually, he doesn't think young people should vote either, for same reason old people shouldn't: "Because it's not prudent to risk their prejudices."

He says 18-year-old voters are ridiculous. Even 21-year-olds are not capable. He suggests raising the voting age to 25, then cutting it off at retirement age. He also wants anyone who migrates to another state after age 55 to lose his franchise. This would permit, he says, only "the middle agers, the people who by and large pay the nation's bills," to decide economic priorities.

Full Fall Agenda Features Fun Things

JIM BARTON

The fall season is off to a flying start with a number of musical and social events already on the agenda.

Jim Bartow, a singing guitarist, will perform for students on the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. The performance, sponsored by the Student Government Organization is open to the interested public. There is no admission charge.

Bartow, who has a bachelor of music degree from the Manhattan School of Music has recorded an album Blues Enough for Authentic Records. His television credits include Folk Music U.S.A., New York Illustrated and the Freedom Riders. Club dates include appearances at The Living Room, Gerde's Folk City, The Village Gate, The Fortune Cookie and the Roof Garden at the Hotel Shelburne.

The New London Blues will present a program of "music of the 70's" at Old Dutch Church next Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Blues, a rock dance band with previous resort contracts and a talent show win, will provide music for the teenage dance. Tickets may be purchased at the door. Members of the group are pictured with vintage vehicle at their Hurley practice site (L-R) Steve Rust, Wayne Waligurski, John Burgess and Mark Rust.

Another event slated for next Friday is the grand opening of the entirely revamped Cellar Club at the YWCA. Starting off the new school year with a new name and an entirely new decor the popular spot will hence-forth be known as the Spotlight.

And the grand opening spotlight will be on getting acquainted. All boys and girls ninth to 12th grades may attend to hear plans for the coming season and to meet other Spotlight members. Doors open 7:30 p.m. each Friday at the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue.

Members of the Spotlight board of directors are Greg Harris, president; Cecilia Archer, vice president; Debbie Brown, secretary, and Janice Anderson, treasurer.

Another new teen lounge slated for grand opening in October is the Jewish Community Council innovation. Starting Oct. 12 the lounge at the center, 96 Maiden Lane, will be open weekdays 4 to 6 p.m. and on selected evenings during the week. It will feature ping-pong tables, juke box, noc hockey and refreshments.

A physical education program will be sarted soon with basketball and cheer leading as featured activities. Plans are underway for a teen trip to Israel next summer. Details will be announced.

The newly formed Jewish Community Council is a merger of the Jewish Community Center and Council.

THE NEW LONDON BLUES

'Crazy' Job Market

Despite bleak job-placement prospects predicted earlier this year, most 1970 college grads have found jobs.

They may not be "the job," "the company," or "the location" they preferred. But they are jobs!

In other words, 1970 saw a marked change in the job market. The year's college grads found they could no longer do the picking and choosing. Instead, in many areas they had to work hard at it—and had to settle for what they could get.

The shock to this year's class, bred in prosperity and conditioned to the "name-your-own-ticket" experiences of previous grads, was almost too much for some to take.

The Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co., after a survey of more than 100 colleges and universities, found that most graduates, however, did survive the shock.

Reports from college placement officials showed little consistency. One said "it was a crazy year." That seems to sum it up pretty well.

Some schools report that a number of grads took non-professional jobs as a temporary stopgap while waiting for the job market to open up. Others took jobs with lesser salary potential and fewer opportunities for advancement. Some went into fields outside their major. Many are going back to school for more education; others are going directly into military service.

Liberal arts graduates were the hardest hit this year. Engineers suffered almost as badly, mostly due to cutbacks in areospace and defense spending.

Accountants were in demand everywhere — about the only conistently bright spot in the whole picture. Job offers for other business grads were down an average of 22 per cent.

Teachers found it hard to get jobs in many areas. But if they were willing to go where the jobs were—primarily in rural areas—there were jobs available. Some schools reported only 35 per cent of their teachers would be placed this fall; others expected 100 per cent placement.

Holders of advanced degrees generally found the going rougher than did undergraduates. PhD's were hardest hit, research funds having been drastically cut in education and industry. MBA's, particularly with engineering and technical backgrounds, found the demand good.

In education, some school systems gave preference to a master's degree with additional teaching experience, while others, to save money, went for bacheleor's degrees which call for starting at a lower point in the typical school system's salary schedule. Some universities reported that PhD's unable to find jobs went back to school to do additional post-doctoral research, hoping the situation would ease up.

The best sources of jobs, in addition to accounting, were in finance, banking and insurance as well as in data processing and in computer sciences. Retailing, sales and marketing were also good for business and liberal arts grads. Chemical engineers founds things best in the petroleum and pharmaceutical industries. Municipalities and utility companies, as well as construction and heavy equipment firms, were interested in civil and mechanical engineers.

Despite the tighter job market, there was no let-up in starting salaries. Almost without exception, salaries offered were higher than those offered 1969 grads.

The outlook is cloudy for next year's class and for '70 grads still waiting and hoping for that dream job to come along. Several schools report some companies have already cancelled recruitment interviews for this fall.

Scholarships Are Offered

College scholarships for 1200 outstanding high school seniors who are motivated toward an Army career will be offered again this year, the U.S. Army has announced.

The scholarship, good at any of the 280 colleges and universities in the United States offering the four-year Army ROTC program, have been awarded annually on a competitive basis for the past six years.

Scholarship winners receive their full tuition, textbook costs and laboratory fees, plus a $50 per month allowance for the full four years.

Winners may select academic courses in the field of their choice, the only additional requirement being the completion of officer training subjects. Upon graduation, they are commissioned second lieutenants in the Army and fulfill their military obligation by serving four years on active duty.

Student selection is based on academic excellence, extracurricular activities, physical standards, results of college entrance examination boards, personal qualities and leadership potential.

Since part of the scholarship selection is based on the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) Tests, it is essential that high school students who intend to compete for one of these awards take the tests this fall.

High school seniors, their parents or teachers, may obtain information by writing: ROTC Scholarships, First U.S. Army, Fort Meade, Maryland 20755. Deadline for submission of completed applications is January 15, 1971. Announcement of scholarship winners will be made in the Spring of 1971.

REPORTS ARE IN — Cindy Raymond, Girls State representative from Rondout Valley High School, gives details of this year's session to Mrs. Marion Ostrander (L), American Legion Auxiliary Unit 1512 president, and Mrs. Isaac Graham, Marbletown Girls State chairman. Cindy and Douglas Holly, Boys State representative, attended a recent dinner meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary, sponsors of the yearly experience in government. Boy and Girl Staters are selected from outstanding members of the junior class. (Firestone photo)

End of the Era of Experience

The sun was warm after two days of rain, and it was a good Saturday to be alive, out of school, the football season beginning if you enjoyed it: friends to rap with if you liked them; or notes to compare as to who got the tough teachers. And then a halo-rimmed cloud blotted out the sun, and there was a sudden ominous chill. And then somebody told somebody else.

"Did you see in the paper. Jimi Hendrix died."

Somehow, the first thought was that it was a rumor. And yet, after the cloud had passed, the chill remained. The chill of knowing that it had to be true. And as the first reports were filled in by more facts, the chill deepened. It must be true. One person told another.

"Have you heard about Hendrix? He died."

Two final words spelled the end of one of the most colorful careers from the music scene of the sixties. "Hendrix died." He was so much a phenomenon of the last decade that somehow, it almost seemed fated that with a new one, he would be leaving. A professional showman who recognised his exit cue. . . . Strangers saw other strangers on the street who looked like cool people, and they asked,

"Hey, have you heard that Jimi Hendrix totaled?"

It was like that day at the end of the fifties when three of the major talents of rock and roll, Richie Havens, Buddy Holly, and the Big Bopper went down in a plane crash. Something in the soul of rock and roll died with them. The next time the Holly sound rang out of a radio, it was a little gadget called a transistor, and the voices were those of the Beatles. But the sounds were still in there, only the voices had changed.

"Is it true? About Hendrix? The radio said he'd died."

Jimi had new vibes for the music world, and he inspired a crowd of talents, worshipers, and downright imitators. His style, his songs, and his sounds were unique. He slung his white guitar down between his legs, and Al Jolson had never been so dead. He set fire to a similar guitar, or picked it with his teeth, and there was a new definition of showmanship. A black singer and white sidemen, and tradition flickered like a camera film. He was wearing an Afro when the patent-leather look was still part of the wardrobe of all black singers. (In England, such cuts are still termed "The Experience cut.") He didn't sing rock, he didn't sing soul. He didn't sing black blues, and he didn't sing white sugar. He sang stark quicksilver acid, he sang electricity, he sang burnt nerve ends and the weight of sunsets. But mostly, he sang.

"Just heard som bad news. They say Hendrix died."

His life was carved in irony. They called him "the black Elvis," but his was the real trip, Presley was the imitation, the safe, sterilized, pleasantly-shocking packed-in plastic white fantasy. America would have kept Jimi Hendrix playing sideman and singing in ghetto nightclubs, if England hadn't sent him back to us wrapped in starduct. He quit the paratroopers when he was sixteen because anyone could jump out of an airplane, he wanted to do something exciting, and he wore a button that read "Brag a little." His face, his stance, and his music screamed that black is beautiful. More importantly, music was beautiful, youth was beautiful, and life was most beautiful of all. Even the ugly parts. And then . . .

On a fall day a slender blonde stood with sun setting in her hair. "Hendrix died," she said.

A brief instant of "Purple Haze" colored the memory, and somehow, the sun seemed warm again. Jimi Hendrix might have died, but he wasn't dead. Men who make powerful music never die for the music that they brought to life provides, in turn, their immortality. Jmi Hendrix had not lived to relish this sun-gilded, life-savoring autumn day, but somewhere, in the grooves of ten million albums, he was alive. Wherever his sounds were part of the day, he was alive there.

Youth in the News

A number of students have arrived on campus to begin collegiate studies.

Nick Pfeiffer of RD 7, Fairway Drive, Kingston, has enrolled in the commercial art division of the Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Pfeiffer, a graduate of Kingston High School, is slated to spend at least two years in the sunny southland as the course runs a full 24 months.

Mary Christian Rickard of Shandaken has arrived on the LeMoyne College campus, Syracuse, to begin her freshman year in the class of 1974. She plans to study for a BS degree in biology.

A June graduate of Onteora Central High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erick M. Rickard, Route 42, Shandaken.

James Vicevich, of 54 West Bridge Street, Saugerties, is among the record freshman class of 800 starting off the 125th academic year at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa.

Another starting freshman is Timothy Grenda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted T. Grenda of Stone Ridge. He is enrolled at Darrow School, New Lebanon. Darrow began its first co-educational year after 38 years as an all boys boarding school with the admittance of 16 girls this year.

Returning to Penn Hall Junior College and Preparatory School, Chambersburg, Pa., is Valerie Jean Vogel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Vogel, 184 Albany Avenue, Kingston. She is a member of the second year class at the junior college.

Two Ulster County residents were among those receiving degrees at the September commencement exercises at Ohio State University. Christine Davis of West Hurley received a bachelor of science in occupational therapy and Donald F. Jennings of Bearsville received a master of arts.

For the second time in his first year at Temple University Marc Philip Weingarten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Weingarten of Highland Park, Levittown, Pa., formerly of Kingston, has been placed on the dean's list. Marc, a pre-law student, recently was awarded a Senatorial Scholarship. A graduate of Neshaminy Senior High School, Langhorne, Pa., he was vice-president of the National Honor Society chapter, a member of the debating team. He appeared in junior and senior class plays and was a member of the school and jazz bands.

Lesley Coulton of Stone Ridge, a member of the Class of 1971 at Wellesley participated in the NSF Undergraduate Research program at the college this summer. Supported by grants from the National Science Foundation the 10-week program is for undergraduate research in biological sciences and chemistry.

Lesley's project concerned studying various techniques for measuring hormone levels in plasma and in pituitary and adrenal glands. She worked in association with Dr. Mary Coyne, a specialist in animal physiology and assistant professor of biological sciences at Wellesley.

A graduate of Rondout Valley High School, Lesley is a biology major at Wellesley. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Axel J. Johansen.

As part of her project, the budding biologist received a weekly stipend for her work and at the conclusion of the project wrote a summary for the National Science Foundation.

Participating students are selected on the basis of academic achievement as well as research potential.

Oratorical Contest Applications Ready

The Ulster County Section of the National High School Oratorical contest is underway, according to John C. Miller, Ulster County oratorical chairman.

All high school principals have been contacted and it is hoped that all high schools in the county will participate.

High school contestants will each prepare and deliver a 10 minute oration dealing with some area, development, application or interpretation of the National Constitution.

The Ulster County Contests will be held at the Rondout Valley High School early in January. All Ulster County high school students are eligible to compete. Interested students should contact high school principals immediately.

Last year the Ulster County winner, Francis Albertini of Kingston, a John A. Coleman High School student won his way to the state finals. Losing the state title by only a half point, Francis promised "There is always next year." And this is it.

Shienvold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shienvold of 105 Lounsbery Place, Kingston. Miss Ellsworth is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arnold L. Ellsworth of Port Ewen.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Kingston High School and is a junior at State University of New York at Oneonta where she is majoring in Home Economics.

Her fiance, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is a pre-medical major at colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Military Wedding at St. Joseph's Church Recently

CAPT. AND MRS. WILLIAM C. OSE
(Powell photo)

Janet Amelia Kaercher of Kingston wed Capt. William Charles Ose, commanding officer of Headquarters Battery, State National Guard, 1/156 Battalion, on Sunday Sept. 13, during a nuptial Mass in St. Joseph's Church, Kingston. Officiating clergyman for the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony was the Rev. James LeBar.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William A. Kaercher of 78 Green Street, Kingston, and the late William A. Kaercher, a former local attorney. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Alfred T. Ose of 8 Plymouth Avenue, Kingston, and the late Alfred T. Ose.

Organist James Sweeney accompanied Donald Sweeney who sang traditional wedding selections. Altar vases of white and gold chrysanthemums and gold gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Alfred T. Kaercher of Westfield, N.J., the bride wore a princess style gown, fashioned with a stand-up collar and long sleeves of ivory Baroness bridal satin with a center panel of Elite re-embroidered Alencon lace accented with seed pearls. A crown of matching Alencon lace held her fingertip veil of ivory illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white spider chrysanthemums and pompons.

Mrs. Thomas Rywick, sister of the bride, Fredonia, was matron of honor in a princess style gown. She wore a matching bow headpiece and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and gold spider chrysanthemums. Her gown had been made by the bride.

Attendants were Elizabeth Ose, Kingston, sister of the bridegroom, and Ilena Ferrari of Kyserike. Their navy moire faille gowns were styled identically to that of the matron of honor's. They wore matching bow headpieces and carried fireside baskets of gold and bronze chrysanthemums with gold streamers. Their gowns were made by Miss Ilena Ferrari.

Miss Linda Barhart, cousin of the bride, Poughkeepsie was flower girl in a princess style gown, made by Miss Ferrari, and fashioned similary to those of the other attendants'. She carried a fireside basket of gold and bronze chrysanthemums with gold streamers.

Robert Ose of Essex Junction, Vt. was best man for his brother. Ushers were CW2 Edio Ferrari, Kyersike; Sgt. Maj. John Hesleitner, 1st Sgt. Joseph C. Leverenz, and CW3 Edward H. Steeger, all of Kingston. Dwain H. Caunitz, Kingston, served as ringbearer.

In military tradition, the bride and bridegroom exited from the church under an arch of crossed swords.

A reception for 330 guests was held at New York State Armory, Manor Avenue, Kingston, the three-tier cake was made by Mrs. George DiGorgi of Kyserike.

For her wedding trip through the southern states and Williamsburg, Va., the bride wore a turquoise blue knit dress with black persian lamb jacket and white orchid corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, attended State University College at New Paltz, and Ulster County Community College. She is employed by Bush-Landesman Associated, Inc., Kingston. Her husband, and alumnus of Highland High School and Bentley School of Accounting and Finance, is a member of the New York State National Guard, 1/156 Battalion, serving as commanding officer of Headquarters Battery. He is self-employed as a salesman.

They will reside at 22 Augusta Street, Kingston.

Lefooters Workshop Monday Evening

Lefooters Western Style Square Dance Club will hold its third class for its eighth workshop on Monday, Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. at the Hurley Reformed Church Hall, off Route 209.

For those who are bored at the thought of another winter season of dull routine, western style square dancing might be the answer. Her is an organized activity that not only brings husband and wife together, but introduces them to new couples from all walks of life. Age is not a barrier for although this type of dancing offers a constant challenge, exercise, and exhiliration, the non-competitive change of pace refreshes and relaxes.

Any couple that would like to test its interest in western style square dancing is invited to dance Monday night to club caller-teacher Don Blair without being obligated to join the class. This will, however, be the last opportunity this season to try this unique type of dancing.

NOT A LEAGUE YET but members of Young Women Diversified a new club at the YWCA in Kingston are getting some bowling tips from Mrs. Fred Port. The evening out for bowling is one of many different programs being planned by the YWCA for young women. The Diversified Bowling Group is planning to meet on Thursdays from 9 a. m. to 12 at Sangi's Bowlero, 20 Cedar Street. If enough members turn out for this event, the gals may form a league. Any woman interested in morning bowling should contact the YW. You need not be a member of the Young Women Diversified program. Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I removed an empty wine bottle from its rattan holder and replaced it with a small potted plant.

This makes a darling holder for the plant and, besides that, it keeps moisture off the table top and lets the clay pot "breathe" properly.

Shug, that's a real whinging of an idea—and wouldn't it look adorable hanging on the patio? Just perfect . . .

Dear Gals:

How's this for a new trick?

Know those lovely boxes of candy that now come with plastic inserts to separate each piece of candy instead of those brown paper ruffled dividers?

Don't throw 'em away.

I took a can of black spray paint and just fizzed away. Now I have a darling earring box with all those divided sections.

Another cute idea for gals whose boyfriends send them candy would be to paint the plastic insert and return 'em for the boys to use for their cufflinks.

Since the inside of the box was already brown, I didn't bother to paint it. Bet these sure would be appreciated, and they're nice enough to be left out on the highboy too.

We're a young couple who like to go places, do things and eat out as much as possible. We've developed an ingenious "plot" to keep our country beautiful . . .

We bought a medium-sized, narrow wastebasket the color of our car—BIG enough so that we don't need to empty it every two minutes, yet small enough so that it fits between the rear and front seat on one side only.

Keeps land areas neat; saves the labor of men who have to clean parks, drive-ins, etc.; and makes us feel we are doing our share to keep down litter.

It's especially ideal for Moms and Dads with little ones who always seem to be eating and have no place to put all those mounds of candy, gum and ice cream wrappers.

CHILDREN AS UNINVITED GUESTS

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. Fredericks of Palo Alto, California.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently, I invited a group of wives, whose husbands work in my husband's office, to an evening coffee, because they had not a chance to meet each other. All of them got baby-sitters except one mother who brought her three children, aged 2, 4 and 6. She said, upon arrival, that she knew that I had a young teenager who wouldn't mind "keeping an eye on them." Unfortunately, he was not available as he had gone off with his own friends for the evening.

I did not feel it fair that the mother of younger children than mine should say, "Go and play in the boy's room," anymore than it would be fair for me to tell my son to go through her closets and drawers. Our house is not large and there was just no place where these little people could play in safety, unattended, as our back yard has a swimming pool. Since we no longer have a swing set or sandbox for toys, we all ended up holding them and entertaining them with paper and crayons as the TV did not interest them. This to me seemed unfair to those who were paying for sitters and had expected an evening of adult conversation; and, it seemed unfair to me for I felt that I could not do a good job of being a hostess.

My question is, does a hostess have to simply do the best she can, or is there a way to avoid such a situation before it happens—without being rude.—Mrs. K. Fredericks.

Dear Mrs. Fredericks: To impose one's children on others is a thoughtless and slefish thing to do. When an invitation specifically includes children, it means that measures have been taken to insure their care and entertainment. When they are not mentioned in an invitation (written or oral) it means that the hostess is planning an adult occasion and does not expect her guests to devote their time to baby-sitting.

Once the children had arrived, there was no course but the one you chose. But if you ask the mother over again, be sure to make it clear that her youngsters are better off at home with a sitter.

Bathing Suits For Next Year To Be 'Cover-ups'

LOS ANGELES UPI—Not as many women are going to take off their clothes in public next summer.

Although Catalina was showing more girl and less suit in its designs for spring 1970, most of the beachwear manufacturers were keeping the customer covered up.

Cole of California told fashion editors attending the California Fashion creators annual press week here that nakedness was no longer news, and it was returning to more down to earth, realistic approach to swimwear.

After all, if women really drop their hems to mid-calf this winter they may feel somewhat shy about baring their bodies on the beach next summer.

Suits came with coordinated caftans, ankle length beach coats, tunics, fringed ponchos which doubled as skirts, and ankle length sarongs.

Many of the wraps were fancy enough to use as hostess costumes.

There were some new fabrics for swim, gear-panne velvet, an acetate combination which looks like suede, and clothbacked vinyl for a leather affect.

Luis Estevez, designing a new collection for Sea Darling, showed a leather look bikini topped with a motorcycle jacket trimmed with gold studs.

Sea Fashion of California had a three-piece suede vest set with a bikini worn under the cowboy style vest.

Catalina had a sleek cotton backed vinyl wet-look bikini with a short slicker to wear over it.

Sandcastle showed a group of nautically inspired suits topped with floor length see-through viole maxi-coats.

Bill Blass Swimwear, for those with better than average figures, featured a long sleeves maillot suit buttoned up the front with silver buttons, topped with a long wrap skirt in polyester jersey.

Cole of California showed body sculpture suits-sleek and simple body hugging suits in soft knit and supple jerseys.

Elizabeth Stewart had a sexy water velvet with boucle terry jersey, one piece drapped and sashed suits, with laces crossing up the very bare back.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF KINGSTON, Plaintiff,
- against -
GILBERT A. BACKENROTH and LORRAINE BACKENROTH, Defendants.

SUMMONS and NOTICE

To the above named defendants:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer, or if the camplaint is not served with this summons, to serve a notice of appearance on the plaintiff's attorney within thirty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.
Dated: July 13, 1970

To the defendants GILBERT A. BACKENROTH and LORRAINE BACKENROTH:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. John H. Pennock, a justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, signed the 22nd day of September, 1970, at Kingston, New York, and filed on the 22nd day of September, 1970, with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster, in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York.

The object of this action is to foreclose a mortgage given by the defendants GILBERT A. BACKENROTH and LORRAINE BACKENROTH to FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF KINGSTON for Nine Thousand Dollars ($9,000.00) with interest from the 20th day of February, 1961, which mortgage was recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster, State of New York, on the 20th day of February, 1961, in Liber 891 of Mortgages at page 336.

The property in question is described as follows:

ALL THOSE THREE PARCELS OF LAND, situate in the Town of Rosendale, County of Ulster and State of New York, lying on the northwesterly side of the road leading from Lucas Turnpike to the Fourth Binnewater, bounded and described as follows:

FIRST: Beginning in the center of the aforesaid mentioned road on the southeast corner of the house lot of Abram A. Deitz and runs from thence along the same north seventy-five degrees thirty minutes west one hundred and eighty-nine feet to the northwest corner of said Deitz then south ten degrees west sixty-six feet to the bounds of William McMunn then along the same south seventy-five degrees thirty minutes east one hundred and ninty-five feet to the center of the aforesaid mentioned road then in the center of the same north four degrees east sixty-six feet to the place of beginning.

FOUR-STATESMEN QUARTET

Internationally Famed Unit Set for KHS Show Oct. 10

KINGSTON

The Four-Statesmen Quartet, internationally famed barber shop quartet, will be one of three quartets that will appear Saturday night, Oct. 10 at the Kingston High School for an "Evening of Barber Shop Harmony."

The Four-Statesmen organized in 1963 at which time the problem of rehearsals seemed unsurmountable but after seven years the quartet travels a total of 784 miles a week for their twice-a-week rehearsals.

The Four-Statesmen have climbed to success in rather a short time—in June, 1964, their first international competition, they finished a respectable 14. In November of that year they became the Northeastern District Champions. Back to international competition in Boston in June, 1965, they acquired a fifth place medal. On to Chicago in 1966 to finish third and finally the gold medal (SPEBSQSA, inly Los Angeles, July 8, 1967 and ternational champs).

The Four-Statesmen have appeared several times on TV. They have also performed for U.S. troops in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, Okinawa, Japan, the Philippines and Hawaii.

Singing lead is Dick Chacos, the youngest member of the quartet. He is chorus director of the Nashua, N. H. Chapter and a past president. In between singing engagements he is office supervisor for the Milford Office of the Public Service Company of New Hampshire.

The big bass in the Four-Statesmen is Don Beinema who hails from Worcester, Mass. He studied to become a chef but after a few years working in various hotels he accepted a position with the post office in Worcester where he has been for the last 14 years.

Doc Sause, baritone, began his singing career with the Four Opters, classmates at the Pennsylvania School of Optometry. He maintains an office in Meriden, Conn. He is a past president of the Meriden and New Haven Chapters, served with NED Ethics Committee, and a past Area Counselor.

Frank Lanza, bachelor tenor of the Statesmen, is president and treasurer of Plantation Enterprises, Inc., a specialized messenger and delivery service in Rhode Island and Southern New England. He is a past president of the Providence Chapter, a past president of the Meriden Chapter and past vice-president of the New Haven Chapter.

Also appearing on the Oct. 4 show will be the Note-Wits (comedy) Quartet for New Jersey, the Kingsmen, Kingston's own barbershop chorus, and a local quartet comprised of members of the Kingsmen.

Tickets will be available at the door or by calling Don Gunzelman, Hurley.

Case No. 77/1970
NOTICE OF SALE

IN PURSUANCE and by virtue of a Judgment or Decree in Foreclosure, duly granted, in the above entitled action on the 26th day of August, 1970, I, RICHARD F. RISELEY JR., the undersigned Referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the lobby of the Ulster County Courthouse, in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 7th day of October, 1970, at 12:00 noon of that day, as one parcel and property, the premises described in said Judgment as follows:

ALL THAT PIECE, TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate and being in the Town of Esopus, in the County of Ulster and State of New York, near the Village of St. Remy, and lying on and adjoining the east side of the public highway leading from New Salem to Rifton in said Town and described as follows:

COMMENCING at a stone set in the ground marked letter B on the corner between the lands of the heirs of the late widow Maria Freer, deceased, and lands formerly owned by Wm. F. Durham on the east side of said public highway and running east along the lands of the heirs of the said Maria Freer, deceased, one hundred and ten feet, thence in a northerly direction along the lands of Wm. F. Durham fifty-five feet, thence in a westerly direction along the lands of the said Wm. F. Durham one hundred and ten feet to said public highway, then along said public highway in a southerly direction fifty-five feet to the place of beginning. Containing about one-seventh of an acre be the same more or less. Subject to such state of facts as an accurate survey might show.

Being the same premises conveyed by John C. Weekly and Dorothy M. Weekly, his wife, to Carl L. DiFiore Sr. and Patricia M. DiFiore, his wife, by deed dated August 13, 1968, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on August 13, 1968, in Liber 1216 of Deeds, page 450.

300 in the County Jail In August, 150 Sentenced

KINGSTON

Three hundred persons were admitted to Ulster County Jail during the month of August according to a report of Sheriff William B. Martin. One hundred and 50 were held for grand jury and 150 were sentenced to the institution.

According to the report, 297 were discharged from the jail, 58 of whom served out their sentence, 91 paid fines and 148 were released for other causes.

The total in custody as of the last day of the month was 71, with 31 held for grand jury and 40 convicted or sentenced to the institution.

The average inmate population was 71, one of whom was female.

The navigation patrol department used 230 hours patrolling the river, the sheriff said, 34 warnings were issued, eight boats were assisted, 12 complaints were received and three vessels were lost or stolen having a total value of $2,100.

In the criminal department, 246 complaints were received, 165 of which were closed by investigation with 34 arrests and 47 cases remaining open.

One hundred and five motorists were assisted, 33 accidents investigated, 46 motor and vehicle traffic arrests and two felony warrants executed.

Also, there were 20 misdemeanor warrants executed, five felony arrests, 45 misdemeanor arrests and 85 Family Court summonses served.

Under special services, 95 persons were finger printed, 84 pistol permits were issued, 32 pistols registered and receipts totaling $488.

In the Civil Department, 104 summonses were issued, 29 district attorney subpoenas, one commitment order, 49 income executions and 23 property executions.

Receipts from bail and fines amounted to $18,490, receipts from executions, $15,195.11, and receipts from fees, $2,720.44.

Woodstock C of C Offers Advice on Noise Curb

WOODSTOCK

Town of Woodstock Chamber of Commerce has recommended to the Town Board that the town hire a consulting firm to study the town's commercial and residential area and after such a study propose "a legally viable and enforceable noise ordinance."

In a second resolution approved unanimously at a recent meeting of the Chamber, it congratulated the Town Board on its decision to reconsider and reevaluate the proposed noise ordinance presented at a public hearing on Sept. 8.

The announcement of the Chamber's action was made this week by Christopher D. Morris, Chamber president.

At the hearing on the proposed ordinance more than 600 attended what developed into a noisy session requiring the constant pounding of Supervisor Milton Houst's gavel. Confusion ensued because the original ordinance draft circulated prior to the hearing was not the same draft presented for discussion. The ordinance would ban "unreasonable," loud or disturbing noise" from musical, mechanical or electronic devices and from construction or building operations between the hours of 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

The new ordinance draft had eliminated any reference to the 10 p.m. to 7 a.m. time period and the mention of musical instruments, radios, records players or construction and building work. However, it did include "any and all unreasonably loud, disturbing or unnecessary noise."

Under the proposed law, any individual, firm, association, or corporation found guilty of making, continuing, or causing noises described above could be fined as much as $50; be imprisoned for as long as 15 days.

At the Town Board meeting Sept. 15, opponents of the proposed ordinance turned out in large numbers. However, Supervisor Houst announced at the meeting that the Town Board "has decided to reevaluate the noise ordinance."

He said the board had "considered most, if not all, of the positive statements made," at the recent hearing.

Houst advised that the board "has decided to take some additional time to again reconsider" the noise ordinance and to consult with such agencies as Woodstock Planning Board, the State Association of Towns, and the Police Department.

Great Neck Gets Contract For Paltz College Job

ALBANY

The State University Construction Fund has awarded the KEC Corporation of Great Neck a $48,490 contract covering Phase I of a project designed to improve safety features in various buildings at the State University College at New Paltz, Gov. Rockefeller announced today.

The work required under this contract will be performed in Capen and Bouton Halls and in the Practice School. It is scheduled for completion by December 14, 1970. David Todd and Associates of New York are the architects.

Current construction at New Paltz, valued at $7,297,000, belongs to the State University's multibillion dollar physical development program directed by the State University Construction Fund, headed by Dr. Anthony G. Adinolfi, general manager. This public benefit corporation was established in 1962 by the Legislature upon the recommendation of Gov. Rockefeller to expedite the construction of facilities to meet the State University's Master Plan requirements.

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FISA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.85 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.30 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. For specific information contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 331 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.
IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

A Spoiled Brother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old happily married woman. My problem is my brother who is 19. Rick was the "favorite" and always knew how to get what he wanted. Mother waited on him hand and foot, and dad gave him money for just breathing." He was spoiled rotten. For his 16th birthday the folks gave him an expensive car, altho his grades were barely passing.

Rick didn't qualify for one of the better schools, so dad pulled some strings and got him into a junior college. He flunked out and came home. Now my parents have decided to wash their hands of him. My father says a psychiatrist friend of his advised him to throw Rick out and let him sink or swim.

Rick has taken up with some "way out" characters. I'm sure they're going the drug route. Rick has a lot of good in him and I can't stand to see him ruin his life. I want to offer Rick a home with my husband and me. My folks say if I take Rick in they will never speak to me again — that bailing him out now will only convince him that someone will always come to his rescue. I need your help

RICK'S SIS

DEAR SIS: A spoiled child makes an emotionally crippled adult. Your parents ,tho well-intentioned, "crippled" Rick, and now they're blaming him because he can't walk straight. I don' know what kind of a psychiatrist would advise a sink or swim solution for a young man who has never been taught to swim.

Take Rick on the condition that the gets a job, tries to straighten himself out and becomes a contributing member of society. And if your folks never speak to you again, it will be their loss.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to offer some advice to "PESTERED IN SUMMER," whose gabby neighbor leans over the fence and talks a blue streak: Instead of a higher fence, plant a New Dawn rambler rose. It grows fast, has vicious thorns, and beautiful pale pink roses all summer long. Cuttings start readily when planted under glass jars. You could soon have the whole fence covered. Your neighbor won't lean long on those thorns, and the foilage will soon obstruct the view.

MRS. L.W.R.,
CLARINGTON, OHIO

DEAR MRS. R.: Now that's what I call "saying it with flowers."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl with a problem. I have a whole collection of dolls. Some are old and some are new, but they are all in excellent condition. I have doll houses and clothes — lots of them.

My father says I am too old for dolls and he wants me to give them away. I realize I am too old to play with dolls, Abby, but I still like to comb their hair and look at them once in a while. I was thinking I might even want to keep them for my children when I get married. Is that so dumb? I am really very much attached to these dolls. I can't help it. I've had some of them for years.

My father says my dolls and doll houses take up valuable room, but you should see all the junk he has just sitting around.
the junk he has jus t sitting

How can I explain to my parents that I want to keep my dolls?

CONFIDENTAIALLY
YOURS

DEAR CONFIDENTIALLY: I don't know how many dolls you have, but perhaps there are some you could give away to little girls who have no dolls at all. Why not keep those dolls you are especially "attached to," and give away the rest? And don't be ashamed of "playing" with dolls at your age. Doll collectors come in all ages.

* * *

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

* * *

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Bridge problems tend to repeat themselves. Here is a hand from Alan Truscott's book that shows North faced with the same problem that faced Oswald Jacoby some 35 years back. Look at the North hand. You have opened one club. East, who is not vulnerable, has jumped to four hearts. Your partner has bid four spades and West has gone to five hearts.

You feel rather certain that your partner will be able to make seven spades if you can discourage a heart lead. How do you go about it? Do you just bid five spades? Do you jump to six? Do you try a fake cue bid of six hearts?

Oswald Jacoby had this same problem in a rubber bridge game about 35 years ago. In those days, the bonus for a vulnerable grand slam was 2,250 points and he wanted it. He jumped to seven spades and put it up to West to figure out what to lead.

West thought awhile and opened the unbid suit, whereupon South ran off 13 tricks.

Jerry Emery of Dallas had a similar problem in the Vanderbilt Cup some 15 years back and made the some bid Jacoby had made with the same delightful result. That is, delightful for the bidder. West was not happy.

Truscott's North also bid seven spades. As Alan points out, he made a deliberate overbid and again it worked. It looks as if this type of hand is just bad for the defenders.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Delays, obstacles, hindrances and limitations may be in effect today and tonight. By using character and patience you will be able to handle these conditions very well. Be sure to tackle whatever work faces you and carry through conscientiously and consistently for best results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Being more interested in getting surroundings improved than going after the romantic is wise now. Get into that creative skill during spare time, too. Evening is best spent at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use care and kindness at home as well as in repairing whatever is worn out is your best way to spend this day away from work. Make your bedroom more comfortable and clean. A gentle manner works wonders now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your shopping comes first and then attend to those accumulated tasks, but don't be upset if there are delays. Take them in your stride. Showing that you have poise and good nature is wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Realize that money can't buy everything in this world, so give the right value to everything. Don't expect everyone to think as you do. Make sure that monetary affairs are in good condition.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) It is wise at this time to handle your own chores, exclusively. If you must be with others, curb your temper. Don't take chances where persons can do you harm. Show that you consider the other fellow as well, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Endeavoring to be of service to others is good. Don't try to get yourself in debt to others. Start doing those personal things for which you have had little time lately. Feel happier.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Not a particularly good day to try and straighten out any misunderstandings with good friends. Establish what your goals are and do something constructive about them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Taking big risks because you are in an adventurous mood is the shortest way to get yourself into trouble now. Instead of waisting time criticizing others, do whatever improves your own position. Show you are smart.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Those ideas you have are fine for a later date, but for now, take care of accumulated work. Being very conscientious and thoughtful with others is your duty as a human being. Relax tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget those new activities today and meet the obligations you have incurred. Relegate those plans with a loved one until a later date. Do something nice for a friend tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to needle an associate today but be kind instead. Later state your ideas in a reasonable manner. Keeping promises to the letter is wise. Trying to renege would only get you in real trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care of unpleasant tasks early so they are soon behind you, and you need not worry about them. Later, renew energies via right treatments. Gentility pays off with intimates in the evening.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: By employing a new attitude you will get the answers for which you have been searching. So don't hesitate to delve into whatever you do not understand. Make a point to render a service to one who has been very helpful to you in the past. Get health improved, too.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) There are many tasks waiting for you today, so start early and show that you want to be of service to others. Show others that you appreciate their assistance. Curb temper.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Getting together with good friends and doing the things that all enjoy can make this a very happy day. You are able to gain personal aims that have been impossible before now. Show that you have a sense of humor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan time to learn what it is that kin expect of you and please them instead of dashing off. You have a new plan that needs study before you can get it rolling nicely. Make your life happier at home.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) First get into the philosophical studies you like and then look up good friends for the recreation you want. A good day to handle correspondence you have been putting aside. Be brief.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to handle several tasks before you get feeling of well being. Look about and see how to make improvements around your home that are needed. Save some time for writing, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan early what you want to accomplish most. Then take positive steps in such directions. Get a new start in whatever is of a social nature. Avoid those who gossip.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Some deep meditation on a higher philosophy of life can result in much happiness. Doing whatever will make your private concerns more orderly is fine. Much activity in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are able to obtain the data you want from a good friend today that you have long searched for. Ask questions pointedly, get right answers. Some affection shown to persons you like in social life is wise this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day to do something of a public nature that is vital and which you like to do. Study those ideas you have for greater success in your particular vocation. Do something about your avocation, also.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to advance greatly now via those fine ideas you have which need work. Making new acquaintances is fine, since they can be of tremendous help to you. Avoid wasting time today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget recreation until you have had time to do some important meditating upon important matters. Use intuition to handle them properly. Evening is then ideal for fun with good freinds.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to chat with associates in a quiet, freindly way and come to a fine understanding for the future. A plan you have can now be aired that starts a project working nicely. Discuss it carefully.

'The Duke' Enjoys This One

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —John Wayne is starring in his first television special "because Uncle Sam makes a lot of my decisions for me."

The outsized Academy Award-winner (True Grit) stood on a soundstage at Goldwyn Studios in the vortex of a swirling gang of extras dressed in powdered wigs and Revolutionary War costumes.

"The government's been breathing down my neck since 1960 when I started over again. In 1960 if I had sold everything I owned I'd have broke even with just about enough left over for a beer."

Musing aloud, Wayne wondered how a man could work as long and hard at a well-paying profession and end up one step ahead of the tax collector after 30 years of stardom.

He heaved an eloquent sigh. "Oh, well. I'm enjoying this special."

Special on NBC Nov. 29

Titled "Swing Out Sweet Land," Wayne's extravaganza will be beamed Nov. 29 by NBC.

Pitching in will be at least 23 top performers, as many or more than show up for the Oscar shindig. Among them Bob Hope, Dean Martin, Rowan and Martin, Red Skelton, Lucille Ball, Jack Benny, Lorne Green and even Tom Smothers.

"I really shouldn't say I'm doing this just to earn money," said Wayne, who doesn't beg for employment.

"I wanted to do one thing before I die, something worthwhile on the traditions of America for my children. The schools, you know, don't exactly stress our country's tradition today.

"This show is 90-minutes of musical comedy on the United States from its infancy to the early 1900s. There are songs, sketches and humor. I sort of wander through it tying the loose ends together.

"I also sneak in a little Americanism from time to time which is different from chauvinism.

"The show isn't preachy. But it says a lot of things."

Cannot Understand

Wayne cannot understand why it is all right for Englishmen, Frenchmen, Russians, Israelis and a hundred other national entities to be patriotic, but why it is an apparent sin among Americans.

John Wayne's moonscape face quaked into a grin and his voice rumbled:

"I open the show saying, 'I suppose you folks are thinking here it comes, put John Wayne and a story about America together and you'll get a lot of ideas about how we should all appreciate our beautiful country and enjoy living here...'"

Duke stood straggle legged and placed his fists on his hips and concluded, "So I tell 'em, 'Well, that's about the size of it.'"

And it is.

Incident at a Clambake: Hail to the New Politics

POLITICS, OLD AND NEW—There's a great deal of talk these days about the new politics versus the old politics.

The old politics is pretty much of a popularity contest with maybe a little mud if the going got tough. It doesn't matter what you say, it only matters who you are. ("Oh, I know him. He's married to the Freebish girl. Didn't his father play second base for the old Kingston Klunkers? Oh yeah, hit .426 in 1931. He's a nice boy (the boy by now is about 45) let's vote for him.") The name of the game is the name. See?

The new politician, on the other hand, is "issue-oriented." In fact, he tends to shun "old" party designations. He'd rather be known as a liberal, or rarely, a conservative, than a Republican or Democrat.

The message is his medium. He feels if he gets his message to the people, whom he assumes are intellignet enough to understand it, they will vote for him in droves.

Which brings us to Dave Lenefsky, the Democratic candidate for state senate. Lenefsky is typical of the new politician. Whereas very often all you can say about the old politicians is that "he's a nice guy" Lenefsky becomes incensed when offered that compliment.

Lenefsky, in getting his "message" across, has spoken on just about everything under the sun since his nomination last March. Hardly a day goes by at the Freeman when we don't receive a news release from the candidate.

The recurring message, however, is that as presently constituted, the state legislature meets about three months a year. The salary for each senator and assemblyman is about $18,000. Lenefsky doesn't begrudge the legislators the 18 big ones, he just says they should work all year for it.

The message is getting across. The following story was passed on by Lenefsky.

It seems the candidate was making one of his innumerable stops along the rubber chicken circuit (clambakes) this summer and found himself in Pleasant Valley, over in Dutchess.

A kindred spirit in the person of an elderly gentleman came up to Lenefsky and said:

"I think it is ridiculous that our state senator works only three months a year and gets paid $18,000 for it."

Lenefsky, with growing excitement agrees with the guy and says, "Where'd you hear that?"

"On the radio the other day," the guy answers.

Lenefsky, clutching a clam, asks, "But WHO said it?"

"I don't know, I didn't catch his name," the guy answers.

"I said it," says Lenefsky, deflatedly.

"Oh," says the guy.

QUE SERA, SERA — Hell hath no fury like a politician jobbed. In this case, the Garraghan appointment to the Ulster County Community College Board, by the county legislature, the original jobber turned into the jobee.

The Garraghan we're referring to is, of course, the slightly larger than life former Mayor Raymond W., who is no longer a private citizen.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Freeman City Hall Reporter

The story began, no doubt, in some smoke filled room where county Democrats decided to pull a swiftee on their Republican counterparts.

With the death of Adrian Kaplan, a city vacancy occurred on the college board. The Demos decided to name Hobie Armstrong, former KHS football great and, quite incidentally, a black man of considerable stature in the community.

The Republicans, of course, would respond with their own candidate, presumably a white man (not necessarily a former KHS football great) of considerable stature in the community.

The vote would be 22-11, straight party line, against Armstrong, thereby forever labeling the Republicans as racists.

The Republicans, however, built a better mousetrap. Enter Raymond W. Garraghan as the Republican nominee. Raymond W., last time we looked, was a Democrat.

The legislature meets. Enter Republicans, Garraghan firmly in hand. Enter Democrats, holding bag. Watch Democrat blood pressure go up. Watch Republicans go down . . . on floor . . . laughing hysterically.

Garraghan, we hear, has been quite impressive at the meetings of the board. Armstrong? He never wanted it anyway.

SPEAKING OF CLAMBAKES, the City Republican Committee is finally getting around to theirs. It's scheduled for Forsyth Park on Oct. 4.

Party faithful will be given the opportunity to meet their candidates, no doubt slightly overweight, from making all the bakes this summer.

Mel Mones, city chairman, expects this week's heat wave to persist until next Sunday. Mones firmly ruled out our idea of holding it at his house in case of snow.

DUTCHESS HOSPITAL GROUNDBREAKING—Dr. Ian T. Loudon of the State Health Department and Michael A. Break Ground for New Wing At Hospital in Rhinebeck

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

Dr. Ian T. Loudon, assistant commissioner of health for New York State, lifted the first shovelful of dirt at 2:30 Friday afternoon to signify the transition from planning to building the new addition to Northern Dutchess Hospital.

Michael C. Mazzarella, hospital administrator, told the gathering of about 60 persons that it was "more appropriate" that Dr. Loudon represent the state on this occasion, even though the hoped for presence of Governor Rockefeller would have lent esteem.

"He is aware of the blood, sweat and tears involved in a project of this type," added Mazzarella.

Dr. Loudon read a brief letter of congratulations from the Governor noting the "commendable effort" of putting together almost $1.5 million for the addition.

Dr. Loudon is a native of Glasgow, Scotland, and has practiced in Scotland and Canada prior to joining the New York State Department of Health as Glens Falls District Health Officer in 1963.

Dr. George Verrilli, scheduled to serve as master of ceremonies, was unable to attend due to a prior commitment—he was busy delivering a baby next door. Board member S. Richard Lloyd took his place.

Dr. Roger Yerry, chief of staff, recounted the good progress made at Northern Dutchess Hospital over the past seven years. "We now have every major specialty represented on our staff," he noted.

The hospital was one of the first in the Mid-Hudson Valley to develop an intensive care unit seven years ago, and one of the first to establish a coronary care unit.

It recently extended its emergency room service to 24 hours a day, with a registered physician always on hand.

And the addition will house, among other things, a 50-bed unit of extended care facilities, which Dr. Yerry said was "also a step ahead."

Mazzarella commented that the public response to the fund-raising goal of $700,000 was "excellent," but chose to add a plug for more contributions by adding that "we are still about $45,000 from our goal."

The administrator said that the extended care wing will not "bring down" hospital costs as such, but will be a saving to the patient from the cost of a regular hospital bed for the convalescing period when assistance is still required.

Besides the extended care beds, the new wing will include a new dining room kitchen facility, central storage, pharmacy, some office space, employes lounge, an administrative wing, a new emergency room.

There also will be modernizing and upgrading of the laboratories, X-ray unit, out-patient area, physical therapy area, medical records, and visiting nurse office space.

The two-story structure will cost about $1.2 million to build, and general construction has bee.. awarded to the Rice Construction Co. of Hempstead, L. I.

When completed, it will increase the hospital's capacity to 120 beds, plus 12 bassinets.

Michael Fichera, president of the board of directors, joined Mazzarella, Dr. Loudon and Dr. Yerry in donning hard hats and breaking ground and the symbolic ribbon to commence building.

Seek Slayer of Policeman in Bank Robbery

Manhunt in Massachusetts

HAVERHILL, Mass. (AP) — More than 800 policemen searched through the night in northeastern Massachusetts and New Hampshire for William M. Gilday, one of five persons charged in the machine-gun slaying of a Boston policeman during a bank robbery.

The officers from 18 communities also manned roadblocks where Gilday, 41, of Amesbury, was spotted several times Friday. During the chase, police said, he stole three cars, took two persons hostage and was cornered once but eluded capture after exchanging shots with police.

Also sought were Katherine A. Power, 20, of Denver, Colo., registered as a senior at Brandeis University in Waltham; Susan Saxe, 20, of Albany, N.Y., a June graduate of Brandeis; and Stanley R. Bond, 25, of Cambridge. Police said they believed the trio flew to Los Angeles Thursday.

Robert Valeri, 21, of Somerville, was arrested a few hours after the $26,000 robbery Wednesday of a branch office of State Street Bank and Trust Co. Patrolman Walter K. Schroeder, 41, was killed during the robbery.

Gilday, Bond and Valeri all served terms at Walpole State Prison and had been associated with Brandeis through a convict rehabilitation program called STEP.

A Bradeis official said Miss Power and Bond had registered there this fall but "have not been on the Brandeis campus recently and apparently have severed all relationships with the campus."

Gilday was a night student at Northeastern University and Valeri had been accepted at Northeastern.

Police said ammunition and military supplies found in Miss Power's Boston apartment had been stolen in the bombing and looting of a National Guard armory at Newburyport last Sunday.

Boston Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara said the equipment showed a "positive link" between the robbery-slaying and "radical, revolutionary campus groups."

Bond, Miss Saxe and Miss Power worked together last spring at the student strike information center set up at Brandeis during protests against the dispatch of U.S. troops into Cambodia.

All five were charged with murder and armed robbery on state warrants Thursday, and federal warrants Friday charged the four fugitives with fleeing to escape prosecution.

Police gave this report on the chase of Gilday Friday:

Mrs. Ruth Palmer, 79, of Hampton, N.H., said Gilday jumped into her car and forced her to drive him to Salem, N.H., where he let her out and drove away. She identified Gilday from police photographs.

The car was in a collision in Massachusetts near Tewksbury and was abandoned.

Police pursued the driver into the woods, where they exchanged shots. One bullet grazed the forehead of Edward Morris, a Lowell policeman.

Gilday escaped to Wilmington, where he commandeered an auto at an auto agency and forced Vincent Coyne, the sales manager, to drive him to New Hampshire.

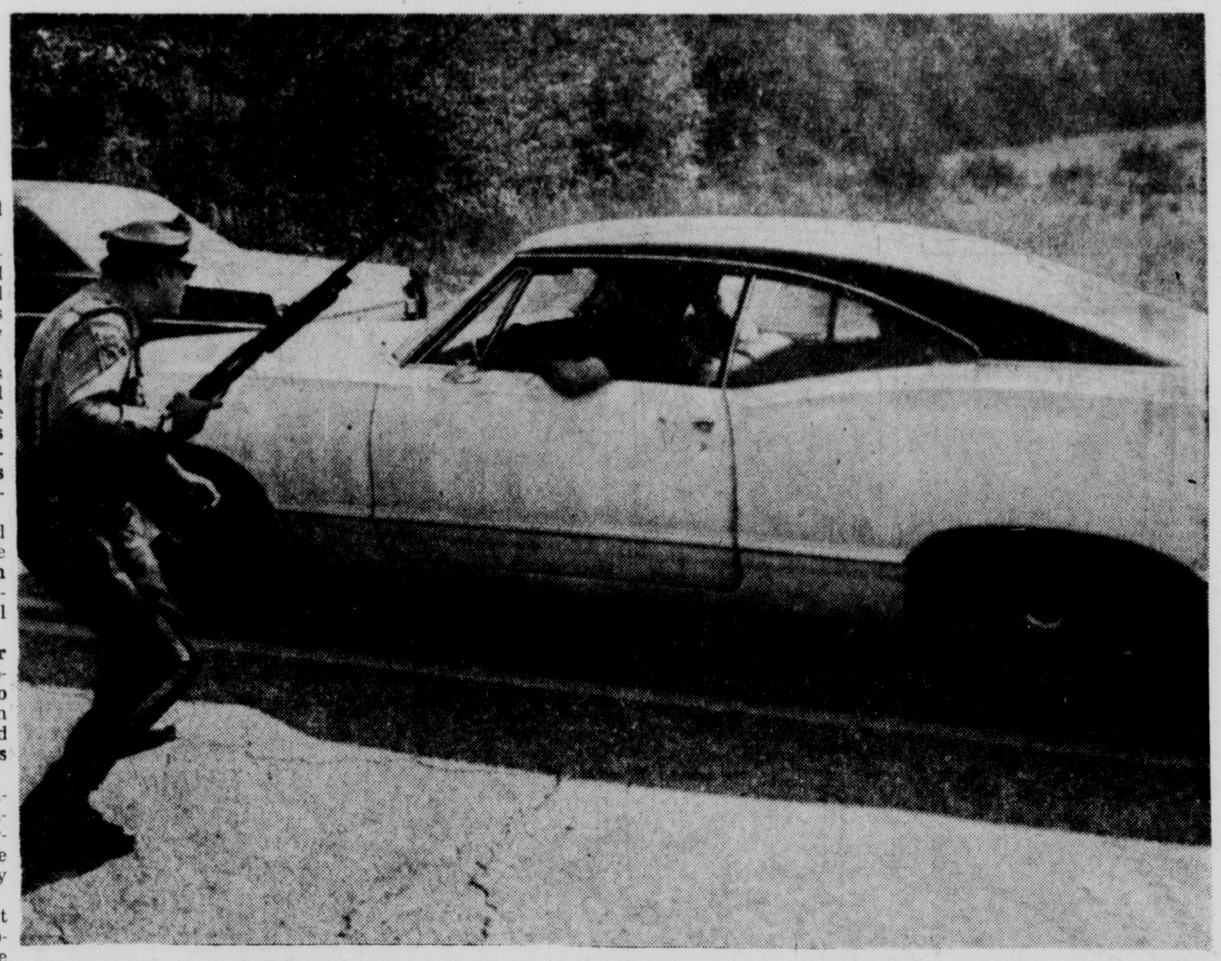

Coyne leaped out of the car as he slowed for a sharp curve and Gilday took the wheel. Police then pursued the car at speeds up to 100 miles an hour to Atkinson, N.H., where the car was wrecked and another was reported stolen.

Gilday apparently spotted several roadblocks during the day and turned away from them, speeding away and eluding police cruisers on several occasions.

In Dover, N.H., a gun dealer identified Gilday from photographs as one of two men who bought several firearms from him Sept. 5. He said Gilday used his own name in registering as a gun purchaser.

The acting president of Brandeis, Charles I. Schottland, announced a pledge of scholarships at the university for the eight children left fatherless by the death of the policeman.

An official of State Street Bank and Trust said a memorial trust fund set up for the Schroeder family received more than $14,000 in less than 24 hours.

ROADBLOCK—Heavily armed Massachusetts State Trooper crouches as he checks car at roadblock Friday on Route 97. William Gilday, 42, Amesbury, Mass., one of four "revolutionaries," is being sought in the slaying of a Boston policeman during a bank holdup Wednesday. He is still at large. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Home Improvement Milestone

KINGSTON MAYOR — Francis R. Koenig congratulates Mrs. Catherine Ulrich of 156 Prospect Street upon her reception of the first grant from the Kingston Home Improvement Program for the renovation of her house. Looking on is Frank Cardinale, director of the program, headquartered at 73 Franklin Street. Mrs. Ulrich's $3,500 grant will be used for aluminum siding, new roofing, painting and interior trim for the house. Contractor will be Colonial Roofing and Siding Company of Kingston. The rehabilitation grants do not have to be repaid but there are also loans available at three per cent interest which can be paid back over a 20-year period. The program aims to bring substandard houses up to city code requirements, thus preventing further urban blight. The concentrated code area is in the old 10th Ward section of the city. That Missing Balloon: Report Ocean Sighting

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two U.S. Coast Guard cutters were rushing to a spot about 300 miles southeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland, in the Atlantic Ocean today where a search plane reported seeing what may have been a balloon missing since last Monday with three passengers.

Coast Guard spokesman in New York City said the cutters Dallas and Ingham were heading toward the spot where a U.S. Air Force place reported seeing a yellow object with orange bands, similar to the balloon. This was in the same general area in which a styrofoam ice chest was discovered Thursday.

A Royal Canadian Air Force plane also reported sighting a white object resembling the huge styrofoam gondola in which the three adventurers set out last Sunday from East Hampton, N.Y. They have been missing since Monday after traveling 800 miles and reporting they were going down in a rain storm.

A British aeronautical engineer, Malcolm Brighton, 32, the only experienced balloonist, was the pilot of the balloon named "Free Life." On Board were Rodney Anderson, 32, a commodities broker, and his television actress wife, Pamela Brown, 28.

They had sought to float from the United States to Europe, preferably Paris, to set a world distance record for balloonists.

Coast Guard spokesmen had said earlier this week the search would have been canceled if they had no clues by Friday. But when the sightings were made late in the day, officials decided to continue the search.

Five aircraft, including one Canadian plane, were assigned to the search along with the Coast Guard cutters.

The balloon crew members reported they were going to splash down early Monday when their last radio message was received.

The Gondola, said to be "unsinkable," was equipped with emergency provisions including a life raft. Originally Brighton and Anderson had planned to make the trip, but Miss Brown decided at the last minute to go along so she "could be with Rod." She had never been in a balloon before.

CLAUDE MONTEUX, conductor of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, will perform as guest soloist on the flute, as well as conductor, in the final concert of the season next May 1.

NATHAN MILSTEIN, moulded in the great traditions of the 19th century, will be the solo violinist at the HVPO's early winter concert, slated Dec. 7 here in Kingston.

Great Soloists . . . Magnificent Sounds

What do the music lovers who attend Hudson Valley Philharmonic concerts prefer entertainmentwise? A survey conducted recently to ascertain just that showed concert-goers wanted most to hear pianists, violinists and singers.

And that's what they'll get in abundance when the Philharmonic marks the opening of its 12th season locally. Catering to the public's desires, the Ulster County Council of the Philharmonic Society has persuaded some of the greatest soloists of the times to perform here. And, as an extra-added bonus, the Council is offering, for the first time, a pre-season and a post-season concert in addition to the four programs normally presented.

That means something extra for subscribers and non-subscribers alike. The concert season starts abuilding on Oct. 26 with a pre-season attraction featuring pianist Rudolf Firkusny as guest artist.

Auspicious Sendoff

Firkusny as an extra, added dividend is wealth indeed. The celebrated Czech-born pianist will appear with the orchestra, under the direction of Claude Monteux, in a concert slated Oct. 26 at 8:30 p.m. in Kingston High School auditorium. He has promised to perform the Schumann Piano Concerto, as well as Ravel's "Mother Goose" Suite, and Berlioz: Symphonie Fantastique. With an international reputation as a master pianist, "global artist" Firkusny will give the Philharmonic an auspicious sendoff here.

Following his performance, the regular season opens Nov. 23 at the Community Theatre. The evening will bring one of the great vocal artists of our times, William Warfield, to Kingston. Acclaimed around the world, Warfield will sing the Verdi: Requiem, backed by the orchestra, again under the direction of Monteux. Appearing with him will be The Community Mixed Chorus, directed by Albert G. Hunter.

To secure Warfield for a local concert, the Ulster Council had to compete with program planners here and abroad. As an orchestral soloist, he achieves extraordinary triumphs in the U.S. every season; is in constant demand for an extensive tour season abroad. Hailed everywhere he sings, he will have a similar impact here in a concert that must be described as an historic local musical event.

Warfield's late November concert will be followed by the early December appearance of famed violinist Nathan Milstein. Considered by many musicians to be even greater than Jascha Heifetz, Efrem Zimbalist or Mischa Elman, the talented Milstein will be here, at the Community Theatre, on Dec. 7 at 8:30 p.m. He'll perform the Concerto in A minor for Violin, backed by Monteux conducting the orchestra.

A Student of Auer

One of the most eminent violin students of the legendary Leopold Auer's studio at Russia's St. Petersburg Conservatory, Milstein has been credited with carrying on the great tradition of the 19th century in his music.

An unusual concert, too, will be the program offered in the subscription series on March 15, again at the Community. Guest soloist will be pianist Robert Guralnik, and he'll be heard at the keyboard performing the Concerto No. 5, "The Emperor," by Beethoven. A delightful dividend that evening will have Guralnik also offering "Seven Studies on Themes by Paul Klee," by Gunther Schuller, and the Concerto for Orchestra by Bela Bartok.

One of our own (he has been a resident of the Hudson Valley for the past decade), pianist Guralnik has earned an enviable reputation in the world of music as a virtuoso performer, chamber musician, accompanist and teacher. As guest soloist and recitalist throughout the U.S. and Europe, he has attracted a large following.

The magic name of Morton Gould is the surefire attraction for the Philharmonic's final concert of the regular season on April 19 at 8:30 p.m. at the Community Theatre.

Gould, whose major symphonic works have won world-wide recognition, will be guest conductor of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic. His works have been performed and recorded by leading symphony orchestras and conductors, and he will follow suit by conducing our orchestra in a performance of his own "Fall River Legend." The program will also include "Soundings," a work commissioned only last year for Robert Shaw and the Atlanta Symphony.

Prolific and Talented

A native New Yorker, the great Gould is one of today's most prolific and multi-talented composer-conductors; has long been one of the active influences on the American musical scene in all its varied facets: concert, ballet, radio, theatre, movies, television, records and education.

Rounding out the year will be the post season, non-subscription concert on May 1 at Saugerties High School Auditorium. It will see Claude Monteux, conductor of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, performing as guest soloist and conductor to close out the season.

Permanent conductor and music director of the area orchestra since 1959, Monteux has also been guest conductor of many European orchestras; has often performed in his unique dual capacity as solo flutist and conductor. He will repeat this role during the Saugerties concert.

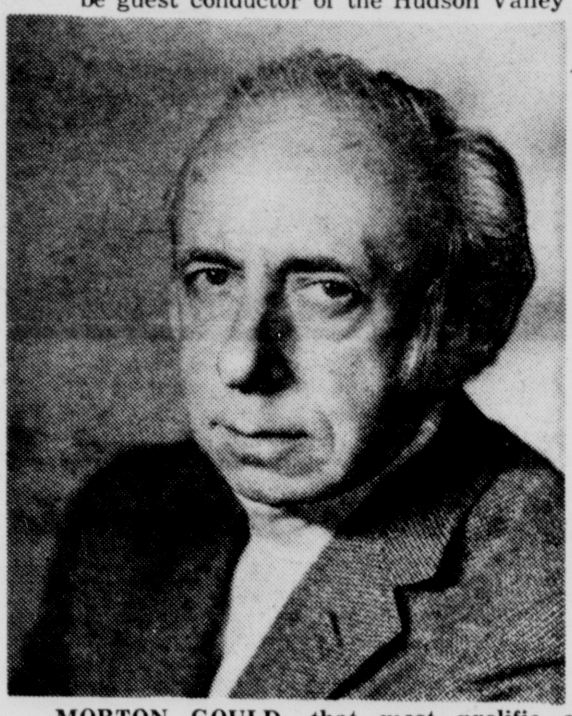

For the Philharmonic, then, a 12th season guaranteed to win many new friends. A concert season differing from those of the past — featuring the pianists, violinists and singers listed as preferred favorites in the survey, offering two extra non-subscription events, and rotating concerts around the county.

So, make haste right now and reserve your seats for the regular subscription series opening in November. And make your interest known in attending the extra concerts when you subscribe for the regular four events in the concert series.

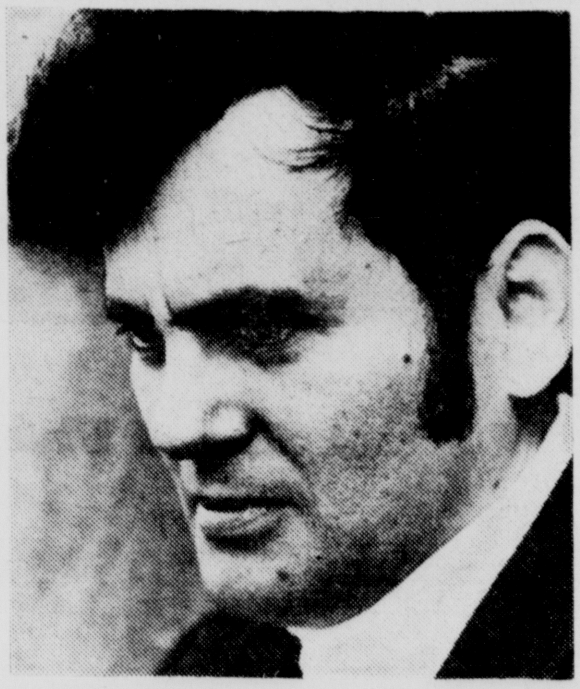

This week has been proclaimed Philharmonic Week locally. Join the big push for great soloists and magnificent sounds by reserving your seats early by calling 331-4081 for information. (T.G.).

WILLIAM WARFIELD, internationally acclaimed American bass-baritone, sings the Verdi: Requiem, when he takes to the stage of the Community Theatre here on the night of Nov. 23.

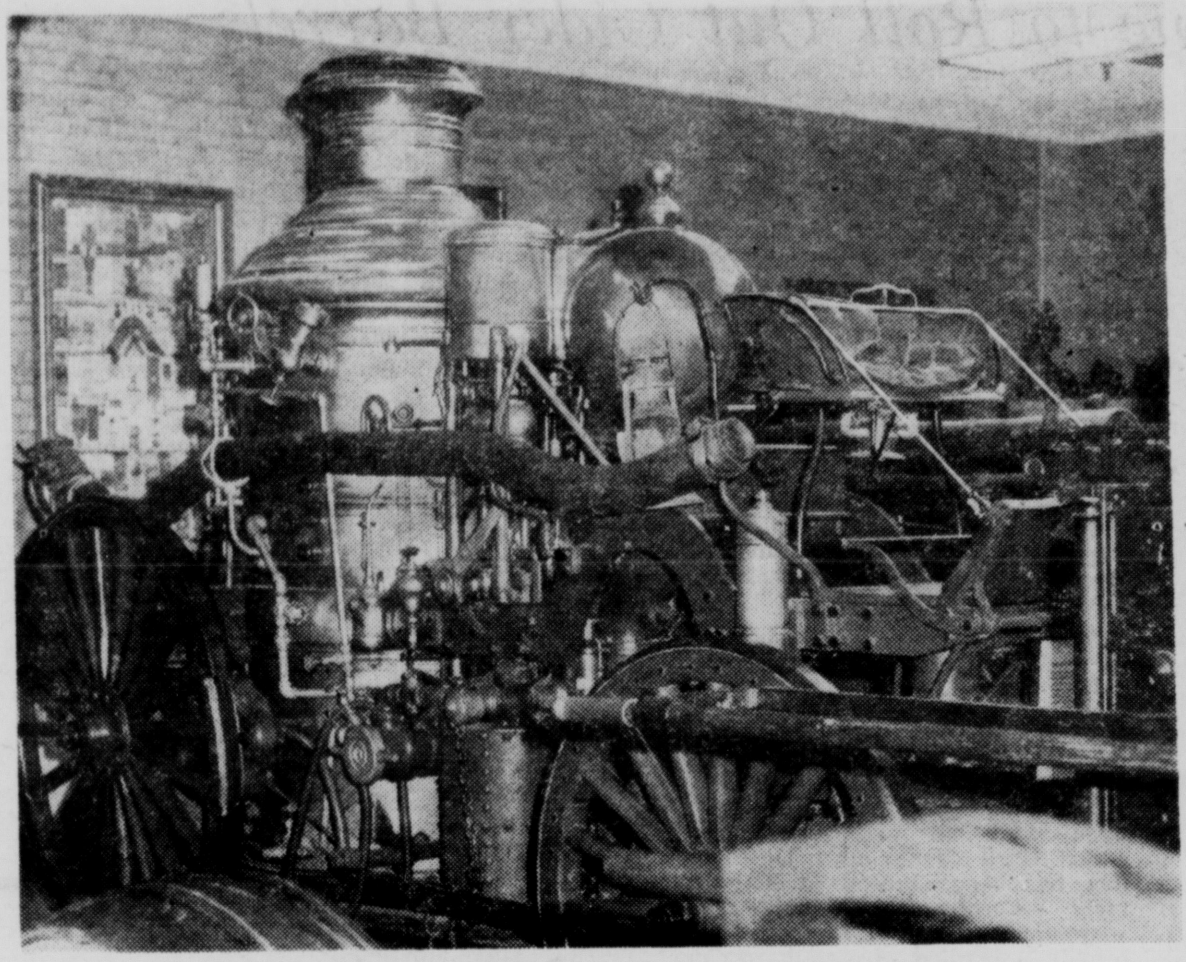

MORTON GOULD, that most prolific and multi-talented of composer-conductors, will be guest conductor of a gala spring concert to highlight HVPO's 1970-71 season next April 19.

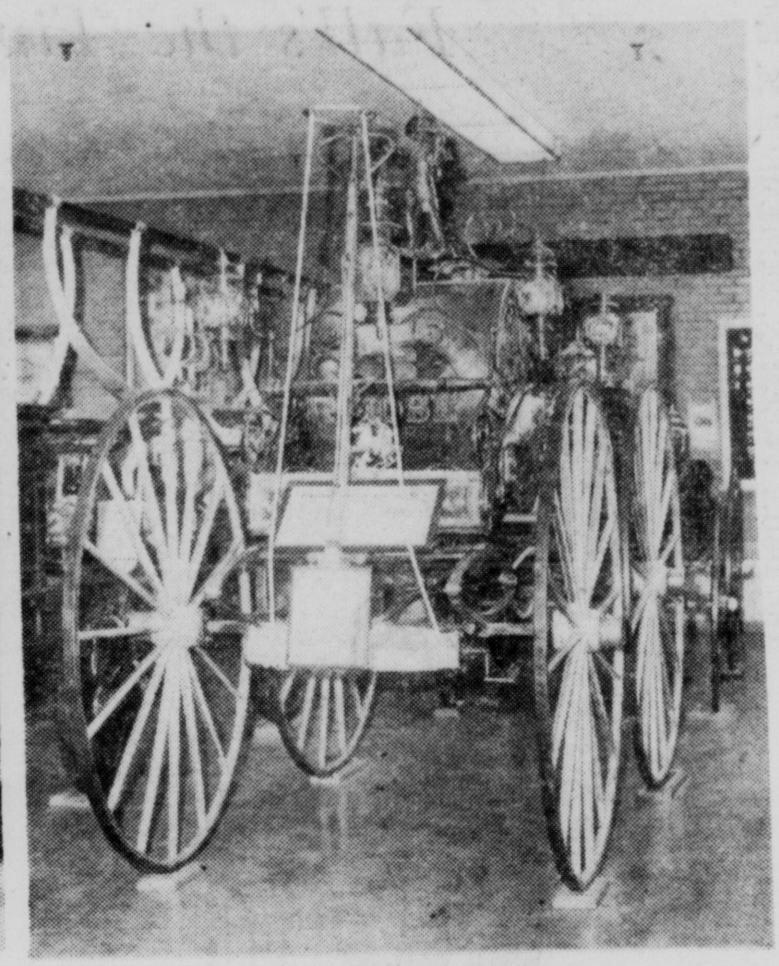

ROBERT GURALNIK, highly regarded as a virtuoso performer and chamber musician, will be guest piano soloist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic in mid-March, performing a Beethoven work.

Tempo Goes Chasing Old Fire Engines

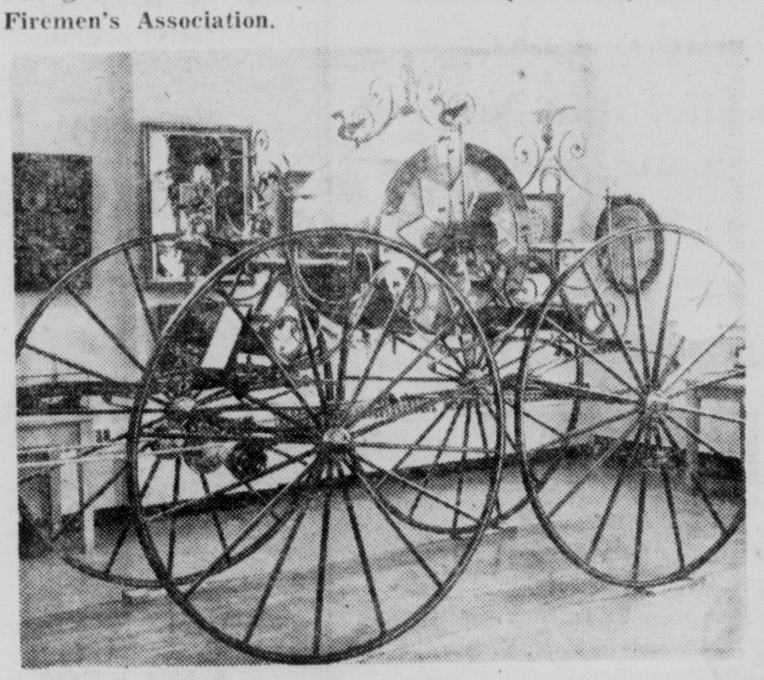

HEROIC RELIC from the past, this massive steam pumper in American Museum of Fire Fighting was originally pulled by hand. Manufactured right in Hudson, it was later converted to horse drawn; saw service with a Catskill engine company.

ONE OF THE MOST beautiful and costly carriages ever manufactured, this Parade Carriage is an outstanding example of fine craftsmanship. It belonged to one of Kingston's own fire-fighting groups, Weiner Hose Co. No. 6.

STATUE OF A FIRE CHIEF representing a Volunteer Fire Chief, this priceless hand-carved wooden statue, circa 1850, was gifted to the museum at Hudson by a Coney Island Firemen's Association.

ANOTHER VIEW of the Parade Carriage of Weiner Hose Co. No. 6 of Kingston, offers further proof of the fine craftsmanship incorporated in this beautiful and costly machine.

What was it like for the dedicated, hard working and intrepid firemen who answered the call to duty 200 years ago? When the alarm sounded and they took to what passed for streets in those days, grabbing their fire hats and speaking trumpets enroute to their hand-drawn and hand-pumped engines, what hazards did they face?

Come along with TEMPO as we go chasing old fire engines, and you'll be treated to a colorful and antiquated slice of the past.

The best place to chase the pumpers of yore these days is in the American Museum of Fire Fighting, just a short drive from here in nearby Hudson. Rickety engines that once made the run to barn and boarding house fires a century or two ago are on display there, along with thousands of other firemanic items such as badges, banners, buckets, helmets, lamps, medals, prints and lithographs.

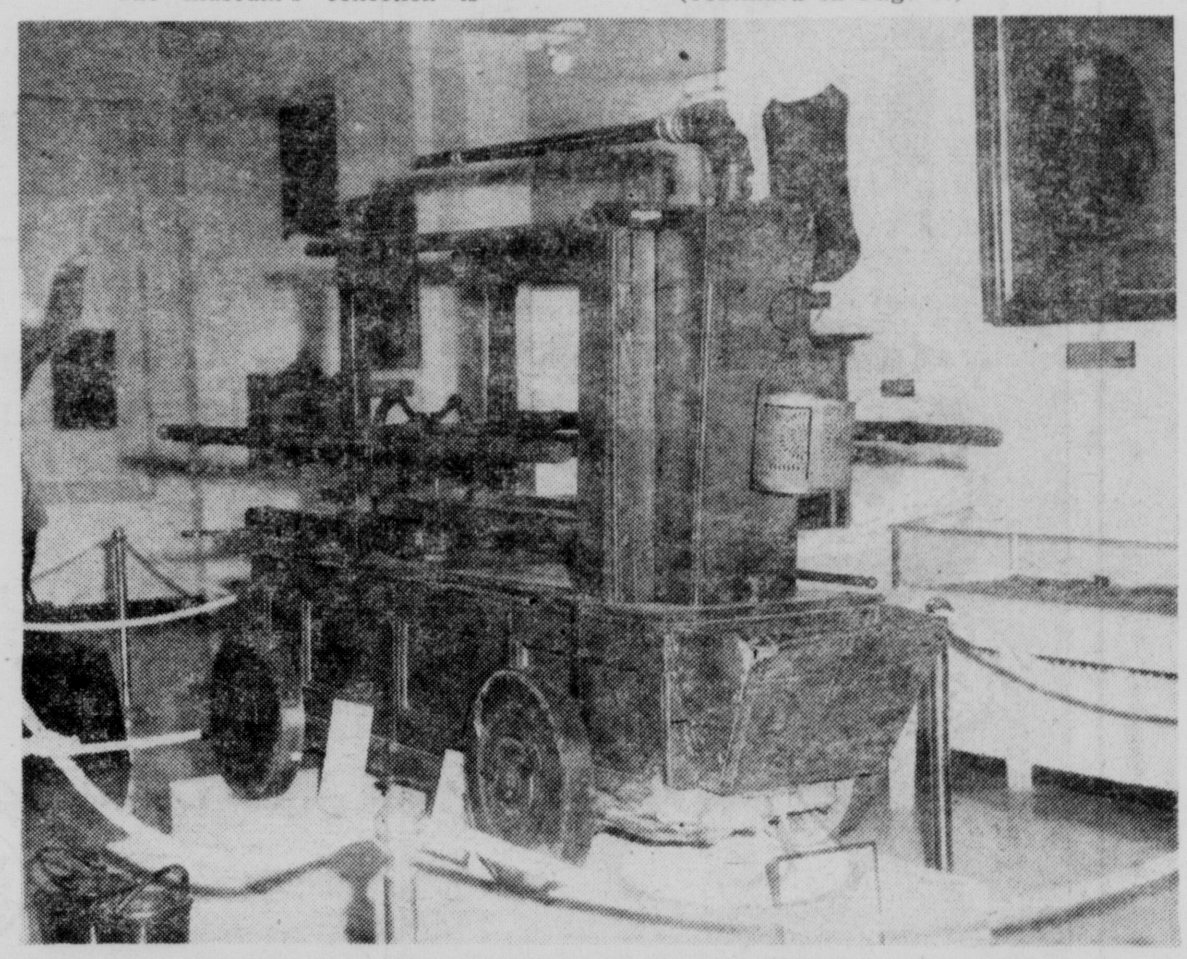

The museum's collection is outstanding, a symbol of the past and present with vast appeal to the fire buff, both young and old. The intriguing engine hall is maintained by the Firemen's Association of the State of New York; is open to the public without charge every day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Once you've driven up U.S. 9W or the Thruway and across the Rip Van Winkle Bridge, you'll find it on the grounds of the State Firemen's Home on Harry Howard Avenue opposite the local high school.

The Home, for aged volunteer firemen, has been functioning since 1895; the museum was built in 1925 and vastly enlarged in 1958 to house the burgeoning acquisitions.

To browse among the many pieces of fire-fighting apparatus dating from 1731 to 1926 is to return to a time when engines were as beautiful and artistic as they were utilitarian.

Who would not be fascinated with a gooseneck engine out of the 1800's, painted a brilliant

Fall's the Time to Roll Out Cider Barrels

When the frost is on the pumpkin and the cider is in the cellar, all's right with the world.

Autumn has been cider time in the United States since colonial days, the National Geographic Society reminded us this week. Cider—sweet and hard—was the chief beverage of the colonists, who drank it by the barrel.

These days, cider is more likely to be bottled than barreled and sweet instead of hard, but it remains a popular drink. In apple country, as summer ends, every roadside stand displays jugs of the golden brown beverage; cider and doughnuts are autumn staples.

Natural Juice

All cider is made from apple juice, but all apple juice is not cider. The freshly squeezed liquid treated to prevent spoilage, and sold in sealed bottles and cans, generally is regarded as plain apple juice.

Sweet cider is fresh apple juice with no preservatives added. Hard cider is apple juice that has been allowed to ferment naturally. Applejack is something else again. It is apple brandy, distilled from hard cider. Unlike many other fruit distillates, applejack retains the distinctive aroma of the original fruit.

At one time, farmers made applejack by merely freezing hard cider. The unfrozen residue was a crude and powerful drink, whose effect, one rueful imbiber recalled, was like a crack on the head with a hammer. Modern applejack is distilled twice and aged in barrels like a fine brandy.

Laird & Co., distillers in Scobeyville, New Jersey, have been making applejack since 1780. The firm claims that its consumer product is the oldest in the United States still made by the original family. George Washington, who made cider at Mount Vernon, asked for the Laird applejack recipe from the firm's founder, Samuel E. Laird.

Washington, however, had his doubts about drinking fresh cider. During the Revolutionary War, he issued a general order that said: "As nothing is more pernicious to the health of Soldiers, nor more certainly productive of the bloody-flux than drinking New Cyder: The General in the most positive manner commands the entire disuse of the same."

'Cheering Liquor'

Robert B. Thomas, the original publisher of the Farmer's Almanack, endorsed cider. In his 1793 almanac, Thomas advised: "See that your cellars are well stored with good cider, that wholesome and cheering liquor...which suits both your constitution and your pocket much better than West-India spirit."

Ribert B. Thomas, the original publisher o fthe

Many farmers had their own small presses to squeeze the foaming juices from Northern Spies, Fameuses, Golden Russets, Hampshire Sweets, Gravensteins, and other old-time apple varieties.

"Old ci-dah" still is cherished in New England. Fred Copeland, a Vermonter, vividly recalled the magic of going to the cellar for cider:

"It was always so deep-twilight in the cellar you had to take a barn lantern. Its pale light would cast a spectral glow along the brown bellies of the row of barrels. And when you knelt with a hammer and old white crockery pitcher beside an untapped barrel it was an event. You slid the pitcher under the spigot, then tapped gently on the wooden spigot screw. Reluctantly it turned. With a velvety hiss a pure white stream plunged into the pitcher. Then it went silent as foam built up like cotton. A mellow, fruity aroma floated out into the darkness."

Attendance Waaay Up For SPAC Specials

Final figures are in on the 1970 summer season at Saratoga Performing Arts Center—and they signify a waaaay up trend over 1969.

There's ample cause for rejoicing in Spatown with figures showing this year's SPAC attendance up 46 per cent over last year. The percentage increase was reflected in all facets of entertainment offered at the Saratoga amphitheatre, including New York City Ballet performances, Philadelphia Orchestra concerts, special events, and chamber music performances. Total attendance at SPAC for the summer reached an all-time high of 338,696.

The largest gain was made by special events. Youthful audiences, attracted to rock and pop concerts, helped to increase attendance at specials 91 per-cent, and to set an all-time record on Sept. 1. On that day, almost 25,000 flocked to view the Saratoga performance featuring "Chicago," a top rock group.

Credit Several Factors

The Center is inclined to credit several factors with contributing to the increased attendance at the upstate cultural and entertainment showplace. Good weather and a late Labor Day were considered prime causes, as well as an ever-increasing audience education in appreciation of ballet and symphonic music among New Yorkers outside the Manhattan area.

Box office sales showed 74,566 attending the ballets for a 13 per cent increase; 69,787 on hand for orchestra events for a five per cent increase; 192,342 flocking to the specials for the 91 per cent increase; and 2,001 attending the infrequent chamber music recitals for a 33 per cent gain.

Attendance in 1969 showed totals of 231,434 for all events, as compared with 338,696 for 1970. That meane 107,262 more people were on hand at SPAC in 1970 than in 1969 to give the popular attraction its 46 per cent increase in attendance.

"CHICAGO," one of the top rock groups in the U.S. today, set an all-time record at Saratoga this summer; attracted close to 25,000 fans, to help increase attendance at special events there by 91 per cent over last year.

JOHN WAYNE

MARLO THOMAS

Named Year's Favorite Stars

Marlo Thomas and John Wayne have been voted Favorite Stars of 1969-70 and will receive PHOTOPLAY Magazine's 49th Annual Gold Medal Awards.

PHOTOPLAY Gold Medals, oldest awards in the entertainment industry — and the only awards based on a poll of the public — will be presented in November on NBC Television Network's "Johnny Carson Show."

Two special editor's Gold Medal Awards will be presented to Danny Thomas and Johnny Cash. This marks the sixth year special editors' awards are being presented by PHOTOPLY. Past recipients of this award have been Bob Hope, John Wayne, James Stewart, Glen Ford and Ginger Rogers.

Carol Wins Again

Comedienne Carol burnett is a repreat winner as Favorite Comedy Star of the Year for the third consecutive year. Miss Burnett is the star of her own weekly CBS-TV comedy-Variety program.

Also receiving Gold Medal Awards are actress Karen Valentine, who co-stars in the ABC-TV weekly show, "Room 222," and James Brolin, co-star of the ABC-TV show "Marcus Welby, M.D.," voted the Most Promising New Stars of 1969-70.

Marlo Thomas, voted Favorite Star this year, was the recipient of the Most Promising Award in 1966.

Chosen to receive PHOTOPLAY's Gold Medal Movie of the Year Award was the Hal Wallis production, "True Grit," which starred John Wayne. ABC-TV's "Marcus Welby, M.D.," starring Robert Young, was voted the Television Show of the Year.

Tempo's Pick of the Programs

Tonight, Sat., Sept. 26

SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES (NBC, 9 p.m.) — "Guns of San Sebastian," a sort of Mexican Western with Anthony Quinn as an Army deserter, Sam Jaffe as a priest who helps him, and Charles Bronson as a Yaqui Indian leader. A 1968 release.

HOWDY (ABC, 9:30 p.m.) — A special from "Mildew, Arkansas" with a really star-studded cast, including Glenn Ford, Terry-Thomas, Nanette Fabray, Pat Buttram, Jack Jones, Barbara Eden, Phil Silvers, Eddie Albert and Eva Gabor. Comedy skits, songs, jokes and some fast and furious dancing.

Sunday, Sept. 27

ISSUES AND ANSWERS (ABC, 1:30 p.m.) — Sen. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, discusses the situation in the Middle East.

THE ED SULLIVAN SHOW (CBS, 8 p.m.) — Sullivan on the rocks is on the menu tonight as Ed turns his smiling attention to "Holiday on Ice," a big ice show that sends the gay blades whirling.

SUNDAY NIGHT MOVIE (ABC, 9 p.m.) — "Hurry Sundown," a big, gaudy, flashy film about life down in Georgia, with Michael Caine, Jane Fonda, Diahann Carroll, Faye Dunaway, Robert Hooks, George Kennedy, Burgess Meredith.

THE BOLD ONES (NBC, 10 p.m.). A well-constructed drama about abortion. John Kerr is the doctor and Burl Ives, James Farentino and Joseph Campanella are the bold lawyers. A new legal concept is involved called "jury nullification."

Monday, Sept. 28

ROWAN AND MARTIN'S LAUGH-IN (NBC, 8 p.m.) — Goldie Hawn guests in three comedy sketches; Lily Tomlin phones Penn Station; Women's Lib gets ribbed.

PRO FOOTBALL (ABC, 9 p.m.)—The Kansas City Chiefs meet the Colts at Baltimore.

Tuesday, Sept. 29

MOVIES (ABC, 8:30 p.m.) — "Night Slaves," science-fiction suspense drama starring James Franciscus and Lee Grant. All about a mysterious force that controls a sleepy little town at night.

Wednesday, Sept. 30

NET FESTIVAL (CHANNEL 13, 8 p.m.) — "George Szell: One Man's Triumph," an intimate profile of the late, fiery, uncompromising conductor of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra.

MUSIC HALL (NBC, 9 p.m.) — "The Friars Club Roasts Don Rickles," has Rickles, master of the insult, getting a taste of his own medicine. Basting him are fellow entertainers Johnny Carson, George C. Scott, Alan King, Dick Cavett, Milton Berle, Henny Youngman and others.

Thursday, Oct. 1

IRONSIDE (NBC, 8:30 p.m.) — A fine script entitled "The Happy Dreams of Hollow Men," starring Joseph Campanella in a powerful performance as a heroin addict forced into narcotics withdrawal.

DAVID DROST (CHANNEL 5, 8:30 p.m.) — Frost conducts a 90-minute interview with Sophia Loren.

MOVIES (CBS, 9 p.m.) — "Butterfield 8," the 1960 drama that won an Oscar for Elizabeth Taylor. From John O'Hara's novel, it's about a fashion model and her ill-fated affairs; also stars Laurence Harvey, Dina Merrill, Eddie Fisher (who's vagely remembered by Liz if not by you).

Friday, Oct. 2

MOVIES (CBS, 9 p.m.) — "None But the Brave," a 1965 drama about World War II. Frank Sinatra, Clint Walker and others are marines on a small Pacific island occupied by the Japanese. The war becomes secondary since both sides need each other for survival. (T.G.)

Carey Scion

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Tom Carey, grandson of Harry Carey, will play the son-in-law of Walter Matthau in "Plaza Suite."

Terror Tale as Good As Rosemary's Baby

THE POSSESSION OF JOEL DELANEY. By Ramona Stewart. Little, Brown. $5.95.

Here is a cracking good story about a demon from the afterlife who takes possession of the body and mind of a living human being.

That sounds a little farfetched, smacking of voodoo or obeah, but the author has depicted the situation so graphically that the reader's disbelief is suspended. Inevitably this book will be compared with "Rosemary's Baby," the best seller about modern witchcraft. The two books are about different phenomena, but this one is every bit as good as the earlier one.

The narrator is Norah Benson, a divorcee with two children, who has been living a comfortable life on New York's upper East Side.

Her younger brother, Joel, has become her big problem. After the breakup of a brief romance with a senator's daughter, Joel had suffered a breakdown and had fled to Tangier. Norah sent him passage money to get home. Then she discovered he was on hashish and LSD.

But something more than a bad trip on dope was bothering Joel. He began disappearing at odd hours, and having fits of amnesia. And how did he suddenly learn to speak Spanish?

The Spanish was a clue to a possible connection with a young Puerto Rican named Tonio—and Tonio seemed to have had a connection with three very grisly murders.

Norah goes through a nightmare watching over Joel, visiting Puerto Rican colonies of the city, and finding some bizarre characters. It would not be fair to give away the whole plot, but it should be mentioned that the final showdown is as gripping as any scene from a wild adventure story.

This is a terror tale with a whale of a lot of suspense.

Craftsmen in the Old Arts Go 'All Out' for Woodstock Show

It's that time of year again. The time when talented craftsmen from all over the area go all out to make the annual Craft Show of the Guild of Woodstock Craftsmen a highlight of the fall season.

This year's show marks the 11th annual display, and it's opening this afternoon, Saturday, Sept. 26 for a lengthy run in the Guild Gallery next to the Craftsmen Shop on Woodstock's Tinker Street.

That means that some of the best weavers, jewelers, enamelists, ceramics makers, furniture builders and other craftsmen will be showing their finest wares. So superlative are the many craft items entered in this annual event that judges are always hard-pressed to reach a decision on prize winners.

Winning Caterories

But winners they must pick and winners will be announced shortly in the following categories:

Ceramics, enameling, wood, weaving, Konrad Cramer Award for outstanding work in any field, Best-of-Show, and the Harry Schmidt Silver Award, a new designation this year.

Three outstanding artist-craftsmen have been chosen by the Shop Board to serve as judges for the 1970 Craft Show. Acting as judges: Althea O'Dell, Jean Wrolsen and J. Terry Carlisle.

Althea O'Dell, art supervisor for Kingston Schools Consolidated, has taught art on the secondary level for many years. She did undergraduate work at Pratt Institute, received a Masters degree from Columbia University and has done graduate study at Columbia and New York University. She has also studied with George Pickens, Frederico Castellon and Peppine Margravitii. Her work has been shown at Albany Institute of History and Art, Parnassus Square Gallery and Woodstock Artists Association. She is a member of the Nieuw Dorp Group and her main technique is water-color.

A Multi-Talented Artist

Jean Wrolsen, a long-time resident of High Woods, has done extensive work in sculpture, weaving, and ceramics although her main interest is in painting. She attended Corcoran School of Art in Washington and the Art Students League in New York City.

Recently, she has worked as registrar for summer classes for the Art Students League at Woodstock. She is currently on the board of directors of the Woodstock Artists Association. A founder of the weavers group of High Woods Reformed Church and teacher to some of the weavers there, she takes pride in work shown and sold at the annual Labor Day Fair. In recent years, Mrs. Wrolsen has taken several painting holidays, combining pleasure with education in such places as the Irish School of Landscape Painting in County Donegal, Republic of Ireland, Italy, Denmark, Norway, and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

J. Terry Carlisle, Saugerties High School art teacher, has an energetic interest in music and youth as well as the art field. He advised and encouraged the Fridae Sound, a popular high school musical group a few years ago, and was instrumental in the formation of Sing-Out Saugerties. Prior to teaching, Carlisle served as assistant director of the Talented Art Program, a government-sponsored program for artistic youngsters in the mid-Hudson Valley. He did his undergraduate work at New Paltz, where he is currently working towards a Masters degree. In addition to his painting, he is student of sculpture under Prof. Herbert Kammerera at New Paltz.

Following a preview of the show last night by Guild consignors, the exhibit goes on display to the general public today. Ulster County residents are cordially invited to enjoy this 11th annual Craft Show, admission free, seven afternoons a week from 1 to 5 p.m.

See it you should, for it is a mammoth exhibit crammed with beautiful works of craftsmanship in every conceivable category.

The World's Children

ABC has prepared a two-part, 90-minute special entitled "To All the World's Children" which will examine the condition of today's children around the world with a view to speculating as to what sort of adults they will become. There will be a 60-minute segment Nov. 27 at 7:30 p.m., and a half-hour segment shown on the network's "Discovery" series at 11:30 a.m. Nov. 29.

Tempo Goes Chasing Engines

red and brown and boasting gold striping? Or a double-deck hand pumper on whose panels have been painted famous volunteer fire-fighters more celebrated as Presidents—Thomas Jefferson and George Washington.

Fit for a King

Among the heroic relics is one so ornate, it might have been built for a king. One of the most beautiful and costly parade carriages ever manufactured, it was once the property of Weiner Hose Co., No. 6 right here in Kingston. It towers 11 feet high, has enormous wheels, and its hose reel is decorated in etched mirrors held by silver-plated lions. Topping off the exquisite craftsmanship is a figure of a fireman holding a rescued child.

The lamps on the one-time Kingston parade carriage, as on others in the museum, are works of art. On one chimney, for example, a knight in armor moves into combat; on another, horses prance. Other adornments include more knights on the tool case, two beautifully burnished bells and an enormous brass eagle with outspread wings.

There's even an engine that looks for all the world like an old square grand piano, which legend says was coveted by the Confederates. And there's a priceless hand carved wooden statue of a Volunteer Fire Chief, Circa 1850, donated by a Coney Island firemen's Association.

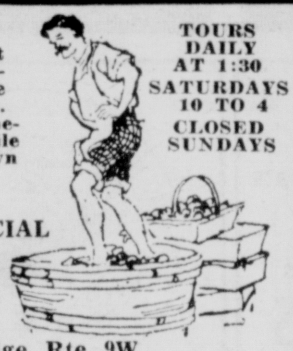

This marvelous museum is open daily throughout the year. So why not plan a visit soon, and return to those fire-breathing, smoke-filled years when steam pumpers were hand-operated, hand-hauled, hand-drawn, hand-pumped, or converted to horse-drawn from pulled by hand. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

The Odd Couple

Back to the Community Theatre this week came this situation comedy, based on one of the funniest Broadway plays in years. It also qualifies as one of the funniest movies ever; is now the basis for a brand new television series that premiered on ABC this past Thursday.

"Couple" has a superlative cast in Jack Lemmon as Felix and Walter Matthau as Oscar, two divorced men sharing a hectic apartment. Oscar is the sloppy one, so dirty there are things growing under his bed. And Felix is so neat he even hangs up his underwear.

If you're seeing it for the first time or the second, you'll enjoy the boys and their poker-playing buddies and the two lovelies—the Pigeon sisters—who live upstairs.

Barefoot in the Park

Back to back with "Couple" at the Community is another funny comedy that was adapted from the Broadway play by the man who authored both hits, Neil Simon. And, strangely enough, "Barefoot" is back to back with "Couple" each Thursday night on TV as new situation comedy series.

Movie buffs will remember the film version now back in Kingston for a rerun as the hilarious story of a newly wedded couple. Robert Redford plays the husband, a square lawyer, and Jane Fonda is the wife, a very curvy kook indeed.

Laugh follows laugh as problem follows problem in their New York City walk-up apartment which just happens to be in a building filled with eccentric characters including Charles Boyer, among others.

Beyond the Valley Of the Dolls

Thanks, but no thanks, to this rerun at Kingston's Mayfair currently. It was pure garbage the first time around and it's still in obscene bad taste. "Valley" takes us inside the teen-bopper world; lets us look at a girl rock-trios encounters with perversions and freaks and sex and drugs.

It's not even funny-rotten; it's just plain trash. A stupid and coarse skinflick of nudism that carries freedom from censorship too far.

Clint Eastwood On Parade

So, all right, we know things are tough — paranoia in the streets, the high cost of living, midis going begging on the racks. But are they really so tough that the 9-W Drive-In could come up with nothing more inspiring this autum weekend than four ridiculous Italian oaters that have already played here five times around?

Anyway, it's Fall Festival time for stoney-faced Clint Eastwood at the 9-W where a quartet of his old films are holding forth. There's "THE GOOD, THE BAD AND THE UGLY," very brutal and supposedly set in the American Southwest during the Civil War. All about three men who search for treasure buried in a cemetery, with plenty of killing in the process.

Then there's "HANG 'EM HIGH," with the stoic Clint as a deputy marshal who's having trouble keeping personal vengeance out of his grim job as he hunts the vigilantes who had tried to lynch him. And just in case that's not gore enough, there's also "A FEW DOLLARS MORE" and "A FISTFUL OF DOLLARS," which offer more of the same ad infinitum and ad nauseum.

Rider on the Rain

Charles Bronson proves his unlimited acting ability in this excellent suspense-filled thriller currently showing at the Roosevelt in Hyde Park. Directed with all the proper touches of terror by the masterful Rene Clement, "Rain" is a marvelous concoction of murder, mysterious strangers and a lovely housewife who refuses to tell the truth.

WALTER MATTHAU makes with the rumple-faced charm for the benefit of the Pigeon sisters, who live upstairs over the apartment he shares with Jack Lemmon. Scene is from "The Odd Couple," main feature on the current double bill at Kingston's Community Theatre.

Touring Olaeta Basque Festival In a Centuries-Old Production

Now on their third triumphant coast to coast tour of the United States, the OLAETA BASQUE FESTIVAL OF BILBOA will open the 1970-71 season at Mount St. Mary College Cultural Centre on Saturday, Oct. 3, at 8:15 p.m. As the oldest homogeneous racial group in Europe and a people many scientists consider to be among the oldest on earth, the Basques have a folk heritage unlike any other.

The songs and dances the Olaeta Basque Festival will perform on the college's Aquinas Hall stage are the same songs and dances that have been sung and clapped to by the Basques in their French and Spanish homelands for centuries.

Victor Olaeta, creator of the Basque Festival of Bilbao, is a choreographer and dancer who holds Master degrees in composition and conducting from Bilbao Conservatory of Music. The company performing on the Newburgh campus under his direction is a carefully selected group of dancers, singers and instrumentalists celebrated for their virtuosity thoughout the seven Basque provinces on both sides of the Western Pyrenees, in Spain and France. The Olaeta program is representative of the dances of each region, including the Dagger Dance, the Stick Dance, and the ever popular Fandango. The folk songs of these regions are also featured as well as music played on the tambourine, accordion, and the dulcaina. The latter is a six stringed guitar-like instrument whose strings are beaten with a small stick. It is native to the province of Navarre.

The interwoven interludes of music, song and dance are performed by the Basque virtuosi in native costume.

The season at the center continues on March 27 with "Twelfth Night" produced by the National Players, and on May 8 with the first national tour of "1776," the award winning Broadway musical. Season tickets are still available, but tickets for individual performances may also be obtained. The public should contact the Cultural Centre box office.

This is a superlative three-part series of a caliber all too rarely found outside metropolitan areas. Culturally-minded mid-Hudson Valley residents will want to take advantage of the opportunity to see Manhattan entertainment so close to home.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

Politicians-all-over-the-place at Rotary barbecue one recent Saturday. D.A. hopeful Frank Vogt had his fair-share of corn-on-cob (after all, there were 1,400 of them). Senatorial candidate David Lenefsky carried curly-haired Genevieve —daddy's most avid electioneer —who was rarin'-to-go with any and every cordial stranger (regardless of his politics).

One youngster—bein' raised in true GOP spirit—is Assemblyman H. Clark Bell's five-year old Briget Ann. Seems the blue-eyed blonde just started school and was asked to recite Pledge to Flag. Briget began: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the U.S. of America and to the REPUBLICANS for which it stands...."

Eatin'-with-fingers, fumblin' with broilers, buttered corn, watermelon, and stoppin' long enough to shake hands with candidates, undoubtedly caused Wash 'N Dry Towel Company's stock to rise like a hen-on-hot-tin-roof.

Still smackin' their chops over finger-lickin'-good grub, diners went "backstage" to congratulate the chef(s) in person. While chewin'-the-fat with Cook Norton, Jim boasted that during summer, Hyde Park Playhouse headliners Eddie Bracken and Pat O'Brien had visited Rondout Savings Bank. (When Jim's not cooking, he's bank president.) Yet it seems the week Betty Grable starred at Playhouse, she didn't make the bank scene. However, Jim feels she was probably tipped off that he was vacationing that week at Cape Cod!

* * *

Spotted Hyde Park Playhouse PR man Tony Angelo takin' pictures at Reggie's Inn at New Paltz. Occasion was reception for Freeman's 1969 Valentine Queen Merriann Motzer who became magazine-cover bride of James Lee Schwandt on her 19th birthday... Understand from Gov. Rockefeller's local right-hand gal Lil Salapatis that Frank Jones, owner of Ten-Grand Tavern, bought camp in Saratoga right next to track. Well, if he loses his shirt, he won't have far to go for replacement.

Boxing champ Foyd Patterson dined at Leherb's recently and Kingston's Bud Stewart asked for his autograph to send his son in service. Mr. P. said, "I'll do you one better. Give me his address and I'll send him an autographed picture." He did, and a certain Dave Stewart is one happy sergeant.... Hearty congratulations to Mrs. John (Helen) Alecca of Ponckhockie who just won a hornet, 1970 4-wheel variety, that is. Understand it's a "honey!"

* * *

Sometime ago Henry P. Eighmey watched boy pin sign on old tree in middle of Mt. Tremper pond: "Loch Ness Monster." Imagine! And they're still lookin' for it in Scotland .. Films playin' simultaneously in Kingston theatres last week: Angels Die Hard, Naked Angels, The Angel Levine. Somehow tho' we doubt they were religious .. Billy Dunn kept busy with birthday song at Rathskeller. Mrs. Reynolds Carr was havin'-a-happy. So was Mrs. Lem (Betty) Howard. Betty just made momentous decision: as she has only one life to live, she's gonna live it as a blonde.

Art Songs & Arias For Music Seminar

Music lovers throughout the Hudson Valley are looking forward to the first in a series of three Performance Repertoire Seminars for students and others in the community interested in vocal arts. The series begins this Sunday, Sept. 27, 3 p.m. in the Ascension Parish Hall, West Park.

Additional seminars will be given Oct. 4 and 11. Seminars will be conducted by Karen Ranung, noted soprano, who has been praised by New York critics for her Town Hall recitals. Miss Ranung teaches privately in New York City and at West Park. A member of the National Association of Teachers of Singing, Miss Ranung received her formal training at Juilliard School of Music and Curtis Institute of Music. She is well known as both teacher and soloist; has appeared often as solsoist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra.

The seminars will offer to singers ready for performance, experience in a para-recital setting. All seminars will be in the form of demonstration-discussion.

Art Songs and Arias

At the opening seminar, Miss Ranung and her advanced students will present vocal technique in relation to poetry, dynamics, and interpretation using art songs from Italian, French, English and German repertoire and arias sung in recital.

The final seminar will be open to area soloists as participants in a master class for interpretation.

All seminars are open to the general public at a nominal admission. For information concerning participation, phone 686-5723.

Brown Exhibit For Delano's

Gallery-goers, always interested in the work of a fine artist, will want to drop into Kingston's Delano's Art Gallery, 268 Fair Street, during the next few weeks to see the canvases by Lena Brown. And area teachers, too, should have a vested interest in this show, since Lena Brown is one of their own.

An accomplished artist, she also teaches at the Sophie Finn School here; is currently exhibiting some two dozen works of art at Delano's.

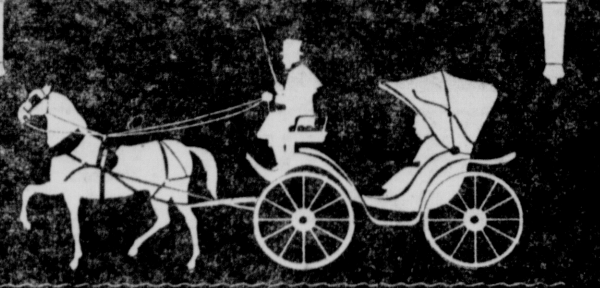

The Fair Street gallery is also planning a gala open house on Sunday, Oct. 11 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mark the date on your calendar and plan to attend. The current display will be augmented at that time with a selection of interesting water colors.

Sunday Hockey

CBS and the National Hockey League have agreed on a new two year contract giving the network broadcast rights to a game each Sunday afternoon, beginning Jan. 10, for 13 weeks, to be followed by the Stanley Cup playoff series.

Mash

Elliott Gould proves his star quality in this brilliantly savage service comedy, well worth a drive down to Poughkeepsie's Juliet Theatre.

One of the blackest, bloodiest and funniest films ever, it also boasts a smashing star performance by Donald Sutherland as a hip member of the Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. The cast delivers mightily in this superb movie that may well be a classic. Plot has Gould as an eccentric, cynical surgeon carrying on his own private guerrilla war with the establishment in an effort to preserve some enduring human values in a world seemingly gone mad. It's the most radical American comedy since "Dr. Strangelove."

The Cheyenne Social Club

At the Lyceum in Red Hook currently is this pleasant western starring James Stewart, Henry Fonda and Shirley Jones. Plot has Stewart inheriting what he thinks is a boaring house-hotel. It turns out to be a hours of pleasure, offering high-class ladies for a price to sinful cowpokes.

Fonda, as Stewart's buddy, feels right at home — but "nice guy" Jimmy is uncomfortable in such surroundings. Bright dialogue makes this casual comedy entertaining. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

Tropic of Cancer

Bawdy, occasionally but not very often witty, and ultimately unsatisfying is this film version of the controversial Henry Miller book of the same title. Now playing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema, it features Rip Torn; is certain to turn some people off in its use of words never before uttered on screen.

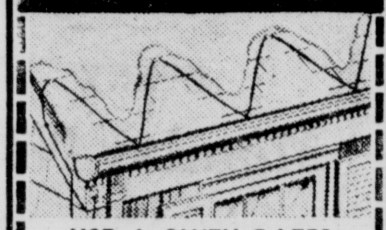

A below the navel view of life in Paris, "Cancer" sometimes achieves the witty ribaldry of famed author Miller, but rarely hits the gritty mainspring of his poetic insight. As a visual experience, it left us dissatisfied. As a once in awhile Miller reader, we have to object that this film translation leaves the core of the artist's work untouched.

AN UNINHIBITED all-girl hard-rock trio goes West to Hollywood from the East during an ascent in the musical world in "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls." And they're only a part of the involved couplings and uncouplings in this rerun now playing at the local Mayfair Theatre.

DAILY CHORES at Old Sturbridge Village, a living museum of early New England at nearby Sturbridge, Mass., are still performed as they were during the years from 1790 to 1840. Always an educational and historical place to visit for a day, a weekend, or longer, the Village is often at its best during autumn's colorama season when workers are busy bringing in the harvest.

From Rags to Riches

'Gaslight Era' Fun Behind Footlights

"From Rags to Riches!" That's the course of young Ned Nimble's life as he battles against the forces of evil for his rightful inheritance. The stalwart lad defends his sister's honor and snatches her from the clutches of the villainous seducer, "Prince" Charlie. A poisoning plot! A broken family reunited! A rooftop chase! A night of terror! Justice triumphant!

Auditions for Performing Arts of Woodstock's next production will be held this Monday and Wednesday, September 28 and 30, in Woodstock. The production, Charles A. Taylor's classic Victorian melodrama, From Rags to Riches, promises a tearful eye, a quickening pulse, and much fun for all involved—on either side of the footlights. The play, directed by Steve Callahan, will begin rehearsals in October. A large cast is required, and anyone with a yen to tread the boards is urged to attend one or the other of these evenings of auditions. Readings are open to the public—members or non-members, experienced or not.

Singers, dancers, and vaudeville talent are needed for the old time olios. P.A.W. also welcomes those interested in backstage work—sets, lights, costumes. Whatever your skills or talents, come to one of the meetings next week. Monday's auditions will be held at Christ's Lutheran Church Fellowship Hall, Mill Hill Road, at 8 p.m. Wednesday's will be upstairs at Deanie's Restaurant, also at 8 p.m. Don't miss this chance for exciting fun in the gaslight era.

Personal Touch For Gift Makers

Too early to start thinking about Christmas?

Not really, if you'd like to plan to enroll in one of those classes offering an opportunity to make Yule gifts with a personal touch.

Unique presents for under the tree giving could result from any of the following classes available at the Guild this season:

Enameling, taught by Joan Pond on Tuesdays from 1-4:30 p.m.; Jewelry, with Gloria Todd teaching on Wednesdays from 1-4:30 p.m.; Weaving, instructed by Berta Frey on Wednesdays and Thursdays from 1-4:30 p.m.; Stained Glass, taught by Tom Pike on Tuesday evenings; and Ceramics, with Phil Bresler instructing Wednesday evenings.

Further information on fees and enrollment may be had by calling Kotty Wangler at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, 679-2815. But make that call soon since class size is limited in order to allow emphasis on the individual needs and desires of participating craftsmen and learners.
